Seven Go To Prison

In Civil Rights Violation

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Seven men, among them a Ku Klux Klan leader, have been sentenced to federal prison terms for conspiring to violate the civil rights of three young men slain in rural Mississippi more than four years ago.

Samuel Holloway Bowers Jr., 42, imperial wizard of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and Alton Wayne Roberts, 29, a former night club bouncer, were sentenced Friday to 10 years imprisonment by U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox. Cecil R. Price, 29, chief deputy sheriff of Neshoba County where the three were killed, and Billy Wayne Posey, 31, employe of an oil distributor at Philadelphia, the county seat, drew six-year sentences.

Three-year terms were given to Horace Doyle Barnette, 29, now living near Shreveport, La.; Jimmy Arledge, 30, a Medridian steel firm employe, and Jimmie Snowden, 34, a Meridian laundry driver.

All plan appeals of their Oct. 20 convictions by an all-white jury at Meridian. The Justice Department brought the conspiracy charges under a Reconstruction era law which provides a maximum penalty of 10 years and a $5,000 fine. No fines were assessed.

Bonds allowing them to go free while appeals are made were set at $10,000 for Bowers and Roberts, $6,000 for Posey and Price, and $3,000 for the rest.

Cox said the sentences were indeterminate and parole could

Traffic Deaths In Slow Climb

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The toll of deaths in New Year weekend traffic accidents climbed slowly Saturday.

The total reached 53.

The National Safety Council estimated in advance that 460 to 540 Americans would lose their lives on streets and roads in the tally period which began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end at midnight Monday.

During a nonholiday weekend of equal length 484 motor vehicle fatalities were reported.

The first full day of the three-day celebration of the turn of the year brought light snow to much of North between the Great Lakes and Rocky Mountains.

Cold weather covered much of the nation.

Traffic deaths during this year's three-day Christmas weekend totaled 685.

The observance of Christmas generally involves more long distance travel and a heavier loss of life.

During the three-day New Year holiday a year ago the traffic toll was 469.

Pioneer Oklahoma Rancher Is Dead

GUYMON, Okla. (AP)—Henry C. Hitch, Sr., 83, a pioneer Oklahoma panhandle rancher and businessman died early Saturday of an apparent heart attack.

Hitch, owner of a large ranch south of Guymon and operator of several ranch and agriculture-connected businesses in the Oklahoma and Texas panhandle, had lived in the Guymon area most of his life. He came here from Missouri as a child.

Hitch was longtime member of the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association, the Southwestern Cattlemen's Association, president of the No Man's Land Historical Society, and one of the members of the first board of directors of the Cowboy Hall of Fame.

Survivors include the widow, one son, H. C. Hitch Jr. of Guymon; two daughters and seven grandchildren.

May Give Redistricting Responsibility To Courts

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Some disheartened legislators say they are willing to let the courts draw up a new congressional redistricting plan for Missouri.

A three-judge federal panel, by a 2-1 margin, threw out the state's 1967 redistricting law Friday and warned that the court would keep its hand in the case until the legislature turns out a satisfactory job.

"I'd just as soon they (the courts) would do it themselves," said Sen. Omar H. Avery, D-Troy, who guided the 1967 law through the legislature as chairman of the Senate Apportionment Committee.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, at home in Charleston, said he most likely will appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court and ask the legislature to tackle the redistricting task in the special session next month.

The 60-day session, starting Jan. 12, can consider only appropriations and items recommended by the governor.

Hearnes said redistricting might sidetrack some of his other proposals.

Sen. Avery expressed outrage over the court's decision.

"It's an absurd decision," Avery declared. "There's no rhyme nor reason to it whatever. We came within all the reasonable limitations of the Supreme Court's one man-one vote decision."

Avery said getting an exact division of population in the 10 districts would involve splitting counties and even precincts.

"I think we can come out with a bill all right," Avery said, "but it's going to be an arbitrary one."

Rep. R. J. "Bus" King of Clayton, House minority leader, said "I'm for sitting tight and letting the courts do the redistricting."

Several legislators said any redistricting done now would have to follow the 1960 census and that no longer is valid.

Congressman Richard H. Ichord of Houston, 8th District Democrat, said any district drawn under the 1960 census "probably will vary more in population than in the last previous redistricting, because there has been a great shift in population."

"My district," Ichord said, "was supposed to have 462,000 population, but now I think it is actually closer to 600,000 bece it includes some St. Louis suburban areas that have been growing so rapidly." If the courts do the redistricting, Ichord said he believes they will just revert to the old districts until the legislature acts.

U.S. Rep. Leonor Sullivan of St. Louis, pointed out that in two years a new census will make accurate redistricting possible. She said the court's decision "is perfectly ridiculous. "I'm all for the one man, one vote principle, but we should be sensible."

Congressman Paul C. Jones of Kennett said, "I can't imagine any two judges coming to the conclusion they did. They are just as crazy as the Supreme Court when they talk about one man, one vote."

"The 1967 bill came much closer to equal representation than I ever thought it would be possible to come," Jones said.

Britons Were Willing To Concede To Hitler

LONDON (AP) —Secret Cabinet records just made public reveal that Britain considered returning one or more German colonies in Africa to Adolf Hitler in 1936 to keep him from stirring up trouble in Europe.

And Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden offered to grant territorial concessions to Mussolini if he would call off his threatened war with Ethiopia.

A change in government policy reduced from 45 to 30 the number of years Cabinet papers are restricted, and newspapermen and some historians were given a preview Saturday at the Records Office. The records will be thrown open to the public Monday.

Eden, according to the Cabinet minutes, expressed the view that there could be no final settlement with Nazi Germany without a transfer of mandates.

Both Neville Chamberlain, then chancellor of the exchequer, and Colonial Secretary J.H. Thomas thought the transfer of Tanganyika—now Tanzania—to Germany might be worthwhile if a permanent settlement could be achieved.

Later, the Berlin Embassy's attitude stiffened. Sir Horace Rumbold, the British ambassador, told the foreign office: "Hitler's foreign policy may be summed up as the destruction of the peace settlement and the re-establishment of Germany as a dominant power in Europe.

"It is vital to hasten and complete our own rearmament. In view of what is so openly proceeding in Germany, we must be ready for all eventualities."

A year later the Cabinet heard a rosier appraisal from Lord Halifax, who in November, 1937, had a five-hour talk with Hitler at Berchtesgaden. Halifax, later to become foreign secretary, reported the Germans "had no policy of immediate adventure." Nine months later the Germans moved into the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia.

Records for 1935 show that Eden, widely regarded as one of the Cabinet's nonappeasers, secretly offered Italy the Ogaden territory of southeast Ethiopia if Mussolini would call off his threatened war on Ethiopia.

Eden, now Lord Avon, made the offer six months before the Ethiopian war began. Ethiopia was to be compensated with part of British-protected Somalia.

The deal fell through because

Optimistic Outlook On Nuclear Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's atomic energy chief forecast Saturday that by the end of 1980 nuclear power plants will be supplying about 25 per cent of the total U.S. need for electricity.

That would mean a gain of more than 25-fold in the next 13 years—since at present atomic power plants account for less than 1 per cent of the country's total electrical generating capacity.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said prospects for such a sharp rise in the nuclear power field stem from an increasing trend on the part of electric utilities companies in the past two years to "go nuclear" in planning new plants.

Seaborg told about it in a year-end statement reminding the nation of "the growing number of peaceful applications of the atom and of future uses expected to ease mankind's age-old problems of food, water and health."

On the other side of the nuclear coin, he said, "the commission, in coordination with the Department of Defense, continued to conduct the research, development, testing and production necessary to provide the United States with a strong nuclear defense capability."

Ticking off various gains during 1967 in the field of peaceful uses of the atom, Seaborg said:

"Outstanding in 1967—as it was in 1966—was the trend by electric utilities to 'go nuclear.'

"The nation enters the New Year with 15 operable nuclear power plants and 21 under construction."

The AEC chief listed various other gains in the peaceful-applications field, including:

—The launching of initial studies aimed at developing nuclear-powered devices that would assist or replace functions of diseased or damaged human hearts.

—First production—and limited distribution—of a purified multiple vaccin against several forms of influenza virus. The vaccine is produced at the AEC's Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee.

Extend New Year's Truce In Answer To Papal Plea

Three-Day Truce By Cong Began Saturday

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam announced Saturday the New Year's truce would be extended by 12 hours in response to Pope Paul VI's appeal that the holiday be observed as a "Day of Peace" throughout the world.

The New Year's truce, originally for 24 hours, will begin at 6 p.m. Sunday. The Viet Cong's own three-day truce began at 1 a.m. Saturday, but there was no agreement by the allies to observe it.

A series of engagements were reported in the northern part of South Vietnam long after the Viet Cong truce had gone into effect.

The Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying the truce extension had been ordered "in the spirit of His Holiness, Pope Paul's appeal of Dec. 15 that Jan. 1 be observed as a 'Day of Peace' throughout the world."

The ministry said the government and people of South Vietnam "appeal to the Communist forces to respect the New Year's truce."

A spokesman for Pope Paul in Vatican City said the pontiff was "deeply grateful" for the truce.

The spokesman added that the Pope was still awaiting some reply from North Vietnam to his peace appeal of Dec. 22 in which he offered himself as a mediator in Vietnam.

There was speculation that the truce extension was the subject of the urgent meeting Friday between President Nguyen Van Thieu and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

Thieu denied this. He would not say what the subject of the Bunker discussions was other than it was "urgent."

In a delayed report, the Marines announced Operation Badger Tooth along the border of Quang Tri and Thua Thien Provinces and said 27 enemy were killed there Friday in "close-range fighting along the coast of the South China Sea."

In the fighting that began in

Brings Down Plane On Busy Highway

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo.— A College Park, Ga., man executed a perfect landing Saturday afternoon after counting more than 25 automobiles pass under his single engine aircraft. The plane was brought down on U. S. 67 just south of Fredericktown.

The pilot, Donald K. Griffith, 36, told police his Piper Commanche ran low on fuel en route from Scott City, Iowa to Georgia. He landed the plane during a heavy snow storm.

Griffith, his wife and two children, were driven to Farmington, Mo., where Griffith said he will await clear weather before resuming the flight. An employe of the Farmington airport brought fuel to the plane, and flew it to Farmington.

Tax Burden To Increase Despite Surcharge Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The burden on the U.S. taxpayer will increase New Year's day even though Congress did not adopt President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent tax surcharge.

Congress did increase Social Security taxes, however, and this will more than offset the repeal of one minor tax which takes effect on Monday—the federal stamp tax on real estate sales.

Higher Social Security taxes won't be felt immediately since the tax rate itself remains at 4.4 per cent during 1968 on both the worker and his boss.

But Congress raised the earnings ceiling on that tax form $6,600 to $7,800. Thus persons earning more than $6,600 this year could pay as much as $52.80 more in Social Security taxes.

The burden would increase further if Congress adopted the proposed surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes which the House Ways and Means Committee plans to reconsider on Jan. 22. Key committee members, however, say action will depend on efforts in the new federal budget to save money.

During 1967, a person earning $6,600 or more paid $290.40 in social security taxes. If he held more than one job and paid more than that the difference will be refunded by the Internal Revenue Service upon request.

Congress approved a maximum payment during 1968 of $343.20 based on the same 4.4 per cent rate and maximum earnings of $7,800. The maximum payment would have remained at $290.40 in the coming year under the old law.

This and repeal of the stamp tax are the only two changes in tax law now scheduled for 1968.

The measure approved by Congress this year will boost the maximum Social Security tax to $460.20 for both the worker and his boss by 1987 compared with $372.90 under the old law.

This will mean a tax rate by 1987 of 5.9 per cent.

For the self-employed, the maximum tax will go as high as $616.20 by 1987. It was $422.40 during 1967 and will jump to $499.20 during 1968.

The real estate stamp tax brought about $60 million to $70 million to federal revenues yearly. The home buyer paid it when he signed his settlement papers. It amounted to 55 cents for each $500 or fraction involved in a transaction.

Claim Record For Monopoly Play

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — Six groggy teen-agers plopped into bed early Saturday after claiming a world record by playing 62 and one-half consecutive hours of Monopoly.

The group of five boys and one girl started playing the game at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Chet Dean, 14.

Mrs Chester Dean, who helped supervise the marathon, said "each was secretly wanting to lie down but not wanting to let on to the others."

The game involves buying and selling of real estate, utilities and railroads —all determined by the cast of dice. The makers of the game told Ronald Kibort, 14, that the previous record was 60 straight hours of play in Bermuda last July 22.

Others who participated in the game was Pam Watkins, 16; Phillip Lamm, 16; Michael Norton, 16, and David Ferguson, 16. The players are classmates at Granite City high schools.

Wet Sunday For Holiday Celebrators

As the result of a law passed by the last session of the Missouri General Assembly, this New Year's Eve won't be a dry one. The last session passed a law allowing liquor sales on Sunday when New Year's Day falls on Monday.

The new law permits bars to be open from 1 p.m. Sunday to 1:30 a.m. Monday, according to Sgt. Charles Stuart of the Sedalia Police Department.

Even though New Year's Eve is traditionally a time of many drunken drivers and brawls, Sedalia usually remains fairly quiet, according to Sedalia Police Chief William Miller.

Chief Miller said Saturday that although his department is not taking any special precautionary measures, the police will follow normal procedures in dealing with drunken drivers.

As a special service, the Sedalia police will drive home those persons who have had a little too much, according to Chief Miller. All the person needs to do is come to the police station at Second and Kentucky and a member of the force will drive him home.

Several Sedalia restaurants and night spots plan celebrations with favors and hats. But there is one place that will be celebrating without the traditional hats and noisemakersp, the Holiday Inn on South Highway 65.

According to the spokesman at the Holiday Inn, their favors and hats did not arrive. But they probably will arrive next week, he added a little sarcastically.

Keller Dies: Had Idea For Zinc Pennies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The man whose suggestion led to the minting of zinc pennies to save copper during World War II died Saturday.

He was William Keller Sr., 61, president of Keller Manufacturing Co. The 4-foot, 9-inch Keller died of a respiratory illness.

Keller wrote a letter to president Franklin D. Roosevelt suggesting zinc be used for pennies. The letter was answered with a presidential citation and there followed the minting of several hundred million of the pennies. Some people mistook them for dimes. After the war the zinc pennies were called back by the Treasury Department.

Keller had a business which produced mantles for kerosene lamps until the demand decreased because of electricity. He then built a profitable business in garden supply tools.

1968 HAPPY NEW YEAR 1968

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who is not writing for advice. It's too late for that. I am writing in the hope that you will print my letter for other teen-age girls who think putting out is the sure way to hang on to a boyfriend.

Bill and I started to go steady on my 16th birthday. It wasn't long before we were doing things we had no right to do. His theory was, "If a girl loves a guy she proves it by holding nothing back." My theory was, "This is the way to make him mine. It will keep him from going with other girls because if I fill all his needs he won't want anyone but me."

After six months Bill began to act as if I was a burden to him. He started to complain because I complained when he went to the hockey games with his buddies. He said I was trying to own him and he couldn't stand a girl who was bossy. So we broke up. Then I learned he had been seeing another girl behind my back. I also learned he had told a few of his "good friends" about some of our private moments.

If any of you girls wonder what it is like to give in to your boyfriend I can tell you in a few sentences: The f ew minutes of pleasure are soon replaced by terrible feelings of guilt. You walk around scared that you might be pregnant. You pray for forgiveness you have a feeling God isn't listening because you have failed Him so many times in the past. You wish you could stop, but you're afraid your boyfriend will leave you if you refuse him, and you couldn't stand that because by now the guy is your whole life. Then one day he gets tired of you and you lose him anyway. And who do you lose him to? A girl who knows how to say "NO." — TOO LATE FOR ME

Dear Too Late: Thank you for sharing your bitter experience in the hope that it might help someone else. And now, if YOU have learned something from it, it will not have been a total disaster.

Dear Ann Landers: For the past 10 years my husband has been too sick to work. I never leave him for more than an hour during the day. Since I do all my own housework I am plenty busy. Once a week my husband and I go to a movie together or we play bridge. This is the extent of our evening socializing.

I don't want to give the impression I am a martyr. My husband is a pleasant person and I don't resent having him around all the time. We have been happily married for 22 years and I hope God gives us 30 more.

The problem is this: I love to play Mah-Jongg and I get invited to play about three evenings a week. I have two teen-agers at home so my husband is never left alone. He always puts on a long face when I leave. Do you feel I should pass up these Mah-Jongg games to please him? — MIAMI MRS.

Dear Mrs.: Ordinarily I would not advise a wife to leave her husband three evenings a week but since the man is at home 100 per cent of the time, that's a lot of togetherness.

I say you are entitled to crack, bam and dot three evenings a week if you want to, dear. And may every hand you pick have at least 10 flowers.

Confidential to Frustrated Martha: Tell Ivan he must go to a doctor and learn if there is enough hearing left so that an aid might help him. If he can't hear you, write it on a piece of paper.

Struggle By African Republic

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung will continue in 1968 his bold bid to seize power from Red China's President Liu Shao-chi.

His followers admit they cannot win without the enormous prestige of Mao's name and the punch of the 2.5 million-man army.

Mao, 74, may die or become seriously incapacitated in 1968. A split in the army could become wider. In either case, Mao's cultural revolution purge —the vehicle he is riding to power—could break down.

After 16 months of agitation, mass struggle, purges of leading Communists, bloodshed and disagreements, the word is out that Mao will step up the revolution in 1968.

"In its second year," said Premier Chou En-lai, Mao's chief of staff, "the great cultural revolution will quicken its pace, because it has been pushed forward adequately during the past year and a great deal of experience has been gained."

Mao has a long way to go: perhaps 20 of the 29 provinces and autonomous regions still evade his grasp. The surest sign of victory will be if Mao convenes the Communist and People's Congresses next year: it will mean he at last has the votes to unseat Liu.

What happens on the mainland will be of acute interest to China's neighbors: Japan, Korea, India, Pakistan.

Mao is reacting angrily to Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's new moves toward the United States, his backing for U.S. Vietnam policy, his willingness to challenge Peking in Southeast Asia. Sato cocks a wary eye at China's nuclear arsenal, debates whether to take on more of the burden of security while remaining under the American nuclear umbrella. Plans for extension of the U.S.-Japan security treaty will provide him headaches.

Food for hungry millions remains India's No. 1 problem, a contrast to neighboring Pakistan which approaches agricultural self-sufficiency.

Prime Minister Indira Ghandi's government is plagued by Communist-fanned unrest in East India and Assam State.

Pakistan's President Ayub Khan has his problems in East Pakistan where an opposition movement feeds on a belief the area is neglected.

Prices Continue Upward

CHICAGO (AP) — The year 1967 will, undoubtedly, be remembered by the agricultural industry as one of many inconsistencies.

Farmers were exhorted by the Johnson administration to produce more grain and they did. Crop production records were set in wheat, corn and soybeans.

They believed that exports of soybeans and products and grain would continue at a good, or even increased, rate. They did not.

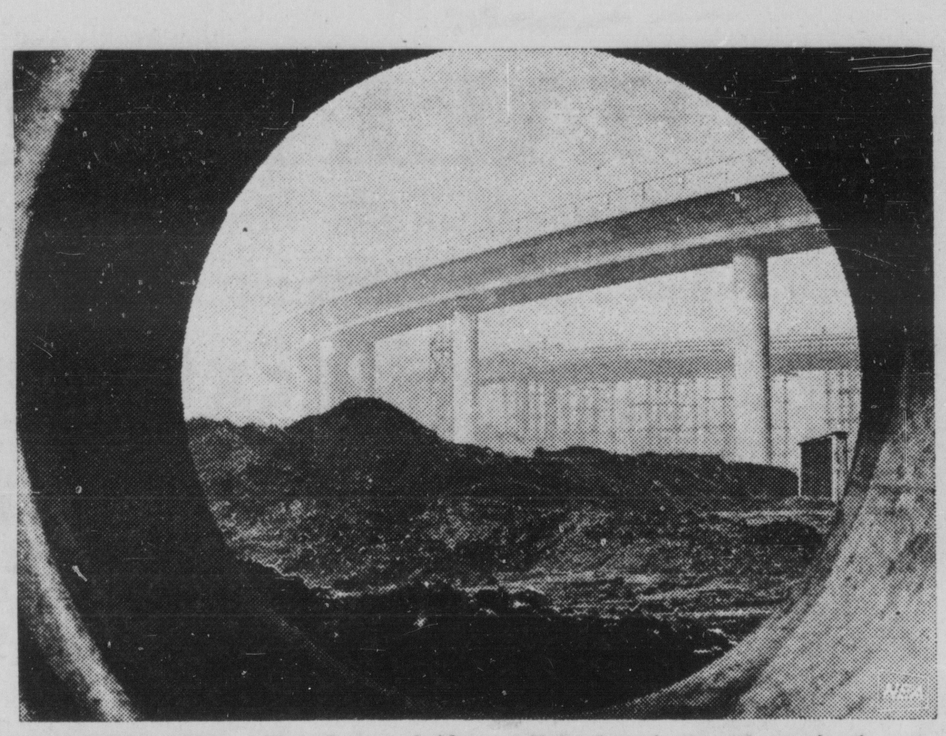

Some foreign countries which for years had been buyers of United States grain had record yields in 1967 and turned exporters, vying with the U.S. for trade.

The market for soybean meal and soybean oil abroad had been climbing for several years but hit some opposition in 1967 because fish meal had been turned out in record amounts around the world and sunflower seed oil became a surplus item with Russia and other Eastern European countries.

The record domestic production, lack of exports and strong competition from former customers of the United States combined to produce a long line of declining prices for commodities to the American farmers. And, as his prices declined, so did prices of grain futures.

Through the first 11 months of 1967, the only figures currently available, there were 5.389 million contracts for commodities handled on the Board of Trade, compared with 7.047 million for the same period the previous year. This represented a loss of 23.5 per cent in business in 1967, compared with 1966.

In June, when Israeli forces battled Arab countries for five days there was a price reaction. On June 5, prices generally opened from 4 cents to 5 cents a bushel higher. Wheat, corn and soybeans advanced near their permissible limits, then declined a few pennies in the same day to close about 3 to 4 cents higher than the previous close. Thereafter, prices resumed their decline, with occasional bulges depending on the influence of the day.

University Oasis Of Learning in Mid-East

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — "Please watch over her. She is our only daughter and we hand her over in your care. We don't know when we will be able to come back."

The parents had crossed the Jordan River from the Israeli-held west bank of Jordan and had scraped together enough money to travel to Beirut with only one objective—to enroll their teen-age girl at the American University of Beirut—AUB.

Wars, political crises and enemy occupation, as this incident in an AUB official's office last summer shows, have not affected the 102-year-old university's position as the No. 1 center of higher education in the Middle East.

For a few months in summer 1967, American was an ugly word in the Arab world and thousands of U. S. citizens were evacuated. But the AUB, veteran of every major Middle East crisis over the past century, stayed on to continue the legacy of its founders.

"I didn't see how we could go through the pearly gates and tell those people we were the ones who had buckled under and closed the university down," said E. Terry Prothro, the AUB's provost, referring to the summer's events.

Prothro, who remained in Beirut throughout the June Arab-Israeli war and its aftermath, has been on the university's faculty for the past 16 years and believes the AUB should never allow itself to be influenced by the changing political climates in the area.

"Most things come and go, but education is the only thing that lasts," Prothro said. "The future of this area is tied to education, no matter where it comes from, and the students know it."

This was evident when AUB opened its 102nd year in October. Despite widespread Arab bitterness at U. S. policy in the area, student enrollment actually increased by 7 per cent to a record 3,490 students from 62 countries.

Arab students at AUB increased despite financial and physical difficulties caused by the war.

"New students come here to get what they want—a good education—and are determined not to 'let the imperialists capture our minds,'" in the words of one faculty member.

In fact, the name "American University of Beirut" is almost a misnomer. Seventy per cent of the faculty of 553 are Arabs and the student body is overwhelmingly Arab. American professors and students are a distinct minority.

Despite its pre-eminent position in the Middle East, the AUB no longer enjoys the academic exclusivity it once did. At the founding conference of the United Nations in San Francisco in 1945, for instance, 19 participants were graduates of AUB—more than from any other single educational institution.

But now other universities have been established in the area and AUB is not the only one producing Arab political, civic and professional leaders.

Unlike the case in other underdeveloped areas of the world, top education and training at AUB have not produced a "braindrain" in the Middle East. Of the university's 14,000 graduates over the past century, 80 per cent have chosen to live and work in the Arab world.

The emphasis at the university in the past three years has been on academic research. Dr. Elie Salem, assistant dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, said it reflects the wishes of the students "who are no longer satisfied with ex-cathedra teaching."

The AUB, whose yearly budget is $14 million, pays professors the highest academic salaries in the Middle East, but there is also strong pressure to achieve results in research and publication.

The campus now is a far cry from the first graduation class in 1866, when AUB—then called the Syrian Protestant College—consisted of 16 students studying in a five-room rented house.

Now the university draws students from as far away as Argentina and Indonesia, and Indians in saris glide next to Lebanese in miniskirts.

Earlier this year, students elected "The Best Liked coed of the Year" by computer. The "Campus Beauty Queen," however, got the eyeball treatment.

Indians Win Round In a Court Case

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Uncle Sam has finally settled with Oregon's Tillamook and Nehalem Indians.

An 1851 treaty set aside 97,250 acres for the two tribes. But the U.S. government, which never ratified the treaty, began selling the Indian lands to homesteaders and buyers.

The Indian Claims Commission, 103 years later, has ruled in favor of the Indians and declared an award of $155,620. The government has begun paying each Tillamook and Nehalem $620.

Twister Transported Record for 40 Miles

POTOSI, Mo. (AP)—A balance sheet from the Washington County Library, which was destroyed by a tornado that struck Potosi last week, was found on a farm near Henatite, Mo.—40 miles from Potosi.

Farmer Lawrence E. Tipton said he found the 1961 balance sheet in his front yard Wednesday. He said the record was torn in several places, but it was readable.

Mrs. Margaret Casey, Washington County librarian, said the balance sheet had been in a wooden filing case that vanished when the twister demolished the library building.

Drug Firms Found Guilty Of Antitrust Violations

NEW YORK (AP) — Three major drug firms have been found guilty of antitrust violations in the manufacture and distribution of $1.7 billion worth of antibiotics.

The conspiracy case against the American Cyanimid Co., Bristol Myers Co. and Charles Pfizer and Co. marked a significant confrontation between the U.S. government and the multi-billion-dollar U.S. pharmaceutical industry.

A U.S. District Court jury of 11 men and a woman found the three firms guilty of restraint of trade, conspiracy to monopolize and actual monoply. The panel returned the verdict Friday night after beginning deliberations Thursday.

Maximum penalties on the charges are fines of $150,000 against each defendant. The convictions also open the way for civil suits from major purchasers. The Sherman Antitrust Act provides for treble damages against violators.

The trial occurred as growing federal involvement in the health field through medicare and other programs has generated increased concern over the cost and quality of that care.

The drug industry has been undergoing increasing scrutiny by the federal government. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has been conducting a wide-ranging probe of drug prices.

Clifford D. Siverd, president of American Cyanimid, expressed surprise and disappointment in the verdict and said the firm would "take all possible steps in the federal courts to have this adverse decision set aside."

A Pfizer spokesman commented," We disagree with and are deeply disappointed by the verdict of the jury. There are still questions to be ruled upon by the trial court and we shall therefore not comment at this time beyond saying the charges against us in this case are unfounded."

The trial opened Oct. 23. The three firms were accused of entering into arrangements during the period from 1953 to 1961 to produce and distribute broad spectrum antibiotics in violation of the Sherman law.

During the trial the government prosecutor said Pfizer and Cyanimid realized "enormous" profits on the antibiotic called tetracycline.

When the cost of manufacturing 100 capsules of the drug ranged from $1.59 to $3.87 for the two companies, he said, each sold that quantity of tetracycline to druggists for $30.60 and the consumer's cost was $51.

Illegitimate Births Data For the U.S.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. birth rate of illegitimate children has more than tripled since 1940, a new study shows.

But the rate has slowed down to a slight annual rise since 1957, Stephanie J. Ventura, a statistician for the National Center for Health Statistics, said today.

Since 1960, the illegitimacy rate among nonwhite women has declined slightly, while that among white women rose sharply, she added.

Mrs. Ventura summarized findings from a recent study on illegitimate births by the national center to closing sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Not all illegitimate births are fully reported, but estimates taking this and other factors into consideration, she said, indicate:

—The number of illegitimate births rose from 89,500 in 1940 to 291,000 in 1965.

—The number or rate of births per 1,000 unmarried American women, aged 15 to 44, also about tripled, from 7.1 per 1,000 women to 23.5 in those same years.

—The rate per 1,000 women rose rapidly between 1940 and 1957, about 6 per cent higher each year. This was at a time when the total number of American women who were unmarried, and so "at risk" of having an illegitimate child, had declined.

—Between 1957 and 1965, the illegitimacy rate rose only about one per cent a year. This occurred when the total number of unmarried women was rising again due to high national birth rates during the 1940s. More girls were reaching child-bearing age of 15 or more, Mrs. Ventura pointed out.

In 1940, she said, the illegitimacy rate for nonwhite women was 35.6 per 1,000, or about 10 times greater than the rate for white women.

By 1965, this ratio had declined to about 8 to 1 or perhaps less, and "actually since 1960, the illegitimacy rate for nonwhite women has declined slightly (one per cent between 1960 and 1965) while the rate for white women increased 26 per cent in these five years."

From a health standpoint, Mrs. Ventura said, the numbers of illegitimate babies each year carry an impact "on services provided for the newborn. . .the health of these infants is more precarious and their need for social services greater."

Wallace Attains His Goal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An informal state survey of California's 27 largest counties indicates former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace has won more voter registration than he needs to get his name on California's 1968 presidential ballot.

The American Independent party —under whose banner Wallace says he will launch a drive for the presidency unless one of the nation's two major parties nominates a conservative candidate—has received 79,001 registrations, a state official said Friday.

H. P. Sullivan, California's assistant secretary of state, said a political party needs only 66,059 registrations to be listed on the ballot. He said more than 40,000 of the pro-Wallace registrations were in Los Angeles County.

The same check, Sullivan said, showed the Peace and Freedom Party, which opposes the Vietnam war, has only 38,754 registrations.

The final count will be made after the Jan. 2 deadline.

A Republican presidential possibility, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, received qualified support Friday from Evangelist Billy Graham.

Graham was asked at an Atlanta, Ga., press conference if he would like to see Nixon selected as the Republican candidate.

"I would go that far," the minister replied after a pause.

"I would not say who I would vote for as President," Graham said, as he called Nixon the "most experienced Republican for the type of conflict we have today."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Republican who says he will resist the call of presidential politics, presented a somber year-end report to the people of New York Friday night, declaring the nation's expectations are running ahead of the country's ability to pay.

Wants Fees Of Doctors Regulated

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of a nationwide citizens group says increasing the premium for the voluntary part of medicare means the nation's elderly are "having to pay for the failure of Congress to prevent the escalation of doctors' fees."

"It's disgraceful," said William R. Hutton, executive director of the National Council of Senior Citizens, which claims to be the largest organization of the elderly in the country with 2 million members in 2,000 affiliated clubs.

The increase from $3 to $4 a month, announced Friday and effective April 1, applies to the part of medicare which pays doctor costs. It was expected. The government contributes an equal monthly amount.

Hutton's group has urged Congress to set limits on doctors' fees under medicare. But he said in an interview it hasn't been done because "the medical profession has an enormous political influence and Congress is afraid because it needs them (doctors) to run this."

Comment from the American Medical Association on the new rates was not immediately available.

Critics of medicare say it has a built-in tendency toward higher costs because doctors are free to charge "reasonble and customary" rates.

Administration officials say they have no plans to ask for any form of fee-setting or limitation on fees.

An administration source said one reason it is not now considering fee schedules is that doctor's fees are not expected to rise even as fast as the cost of living next year.

And, he noted, some AMA leaders recently expressed concern about the increase in doctors, fees.

"They know there's a lot of pressure" for a fee schedule, he said.

Hutton and others have argued that rates should be fixed—the way they are, for example, under the Blue Shield private medical insurance plan.

The $4 rate announced by Secretary John W. Gardner of the Department of Health Education and Welfare will remain in effect for the next two years. Gardner said the increase was based on actual costs since the program began July 1, 1966, and on projected costs.

Officials said one-fourth of the increase was the direct result of the rise in doctors' fees. The fees have gone up more than seven per cent during the past year.

In the News

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Delaware Gov. Charles Terry has signed into law the state's first meat inspection act.

The meat inspection bill will go into effect in six months, but meanwhile $52,660 was appropriated to the State Board of Agriculture so it can set up the machinery for enforcing the new law.

Mussolini turned it down, the record shows.

On the domestic front, the records show that in the 1931 financial crisis King George V threatened to sell all his horses and state carriages and fire the "Beefeater" guards at the Tower of London if the Labor government cut his allowance by 20 per cent.

The king told the Cabinet these economies would hurt the public more than him. The threat worked, and the royal allowance was cut only 10 per cent, which the king already had accepted as reasonable.

Papers about King George's son's abdication as King Edward VIII, though falling into the 1922-37 period, are not released. The exceptions was made to avoid embarrassment to the ex-king, now Duke of Windsor, and his wife, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Next Year's State Races Got Good Starts in 1967

By LARRY HALL
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Mark down 1967 as the year the 1968 campaign started way ahead of time and great changes were made in state government.

Politically, the new year promises to produce the most exciting election campaign in Missouri in many years. Legislatively, we won't know until Gov. Warren E. Hearnes presents his program to the special session Jan. 12.

And you can mark New Year's day on your calendar as the first time Missouri has required an annual safety inspection of your car, a special license and test for motorcycle riders (who must all wear crash helmets from now on) and the end of the open range in the few Ozark areas where it still exists.

Those laws go into effect Monday, although passed last spring by the legislature.

Traditionally the election campaign doesn't start until the annual Republican Lincoln Day festival in Kansas City Feb. 2-3 and the annual Democratic Jackson Day spectacle in Springfield March 22-23.

But from a practical standpoint the campaign has been underway for months, this time with a new twist. For the first time in years the Republicans are extremely optimistic about their chances and the Democrats who talk honestly about it are pretty dubious.

The Republicans have fielded a veteran member of Congress to run for the U.S. Senate—Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves. He is not expected to have any serious primary opposition.

But the Democrats are all a-jumble over their senatorial contest. Incumbent Sen. Edward V. Long of Louisiana, Mo., has had his ethics called into question for accepting legal fees in cases involving St. Louis lawyer Morris Shenker.

Long claims he was vindicated completely by the Senate ethics committee but a lot of newspapers and voters around the state have disagreed.

The senator is being challenged by Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton of St. Louis, who has youth, enthusiasm and plenty of money going for him as well as a good television image.

The third man in the race is the all but forgotten Dorsey Bass, Columbia businesman.

Everyone agrees Gov. Warren E. Hearnes will have no serious opposition in the primary but he faces a battle in the general election with Republican Lawrence K. Roos, St. Louis County Supervisor and former legislator.

Democrats fear a national Republican sweep might put Hearnes in trouble, although he has been in conflict with the federal government more than any governor since the late Phil M. Donnelly and this dissassociation from the Johnson administration could be a big factor in his favor.

At this point the political intentions of True Davis of St. Joseph are still his own secret but he has said he has not closed the door to the possibility that he might get into the Democratic senatorial race.

The contest for lieutenant governor and some of the congressional seats also have aroused more than usual interest.

In the field of state government, two new agencies were created — a state Department of Community Affairs and a new Commission on Tourism. Both are just getting started on their programs.

The 1967 legislature also did a lot of other things which will affect your daily affairs sooner or later — adoption of the medicaid program, for example.

And referring to the people a proposed constitutional amendment to cut the required majority on general obligation bonds from two-thirds to 60 per cent and on revenue bonds to a simple majority.

In the field of mental health, all three intensive treatment centers at St. Louis, Columbia and Kansas City got into operation and the first few of nine new mental retardation clinics started work. The nursing and foster home program also made big strides in taking mere custodial cases out of the state mental hospitals.

Missouri jumped into the toll turnpike program in the year just ending, although the validity of the law is still being tested in the courts.

Other things that will affect almost everyone included establishment of a state meat plant inspection program, a 3-cent cut in the state property tax, a new consumer fraud law and a stronger insurance regulatory code.

In the field of education, state aid to schools was increased and extended to kindergartens for the first time, although the kindergarten idea originated in Missouri years ago. Junior colleges grew by leaps and bounds and their state aid also was increased.

A new nuclear research center at the University of Missouri, the largest at any college in the country, began to realize some of its vast potential in research. You'll hear more about it in the days to come.

Two important changes were made in the executive department.

First, the governor for the first time had the right to succeed himself and started an early campaign to do so.

Second, the governor was given authority to initiate reorganizations within the executive department, subject to legislative approval.

The state Revenue Department is already started on its revamping.

One change, almost overlooked in the legislative excitement, was to shift the policy making power of the state Health Division from an appointed director to a commission appointed by the governor —an old system that was abandoned under the 1945 Constitution.

In its own field, the legislature took several important steps in addition to staffing its most important committees for the first time with permanent helpers.

For example, it continued a capital improvements study commission that has proved of great value to the appropriations committees even with its preliminary work.

It also continued a state tax study commission which is expected to come up with its conclusions soon, and set up an election law study commission in an attempt to modernize Missouri's archaic election laws dating back to the time when it took a day long journey to get to the county seat.

Need Tax Account Number On Report

Taxpayers who receive dividend or interest income are required by law to give their tax account number to the organizations that pay the income, according to E. P. Trainor, District Director of Internal Revenue for Missouri. For individual taxpayers, the tax account number is the Social Security number.

Business firms are required to report to IRS dividends or interest of $10 or more paid to anyone during a calendar year. The information returns, Forms 1099, are compared by computer with individual income tax returns to see if income is reported in the full amount.

Firms must also fusnish a statement of total payments for the year to persons receiving dividends and interest amounting to $10 or more.

LONDON (AP) — Official secrecy will continue to veil the 1936 Cabinet debates on the abdication of King Edward VIII despite a new law that could have made them public.

Minutes of the debates on the crisis over the king's decision to marry the divorced American, Wallis Warfield Simpson, are not expected to be released until the death of the couple, now the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The request for continued secrecy was believed to have come from government officials and not the duke or the royal family.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The pro-Peking wing of India's Communist party is planning an armed insurrection "on the Vietnam pattern and (it) will be intensified in areas bordering China and Pakistan," the Hindustan Times reported today.

A front-page story said the plan is outlined in secret documents, circulated among the adherents of Peking. The Indian government has gotten hold of some of these documents, the report said.

CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser's newspaper voice admitted today that the United States does not influence Israeli policy as much as Egypt has been contending.

"We have to admit this fact, which has a great bearing on the Arab-Israeli conflict, no matter how we may dislike it," wrote Muhammed Hassanein Heikal, editor-in-chief of Al Ahram.

Israel has emerged from the June war "almost an equal partner" with the United States, whereas in the past it was "a tool of American policy in the Middle East," he said.

This means, he continued, that the United States will have at least to exert double the pressure on Israel to withdraw from territory it occupied in June—if Washington decides to exert pressure.

BOLTON, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Sallie Gullick, 68, a widow, reports that she has harvested and sold the only cotton grown in Kansas this year.

She says the 4,500-pound crop grown on the 17-acre farm she operates left much to be desired. "There was too much rain...I didn't have a team and the necessary 24-inch sweeps to drain the water off the rows."

But she is not discouraged. "I just love to plant, chop and watch the plants grow," she said. "Next year I'll be at it again."

Regional Planning Districts Formed

There are currently eight regional planning districts in Missouri and the Show-Me district, established in April of this year and including Pettis, Johnson and Lafayette Counties, is one of them. The information was provided by Henry Lamm, presiding judge of the Pettis County Court.

It was based on a public affairs newsletter prepared by Richard R. Dohm and written by Robert C. Simonds, planning specialist.

Of the three-county area which makes up the Show-Me Regional Planning District, "cities involved in some phase of a comprehensive plan" include Higginsville and Concordia in Lafayette County; Warrensburg in Johnson County; and Sedalia.

According to Simonds, regional planning in Missouri has been greatly accelerated since 1962. One of the reasons he gave for the increase was that the federal government in many cases required some form of regional planning before grants-in-aid or matching funds are provided. Since 1962, Simonds said the growth of regional planning has grown from 15 cities involved in some way or other to 115. Nine regional planning projects have been originated in the same time.

In general terms, a planning unit may be no smaller than a county. Multi-county planning, such as the Show-Me district, is preferred, Simonds said.

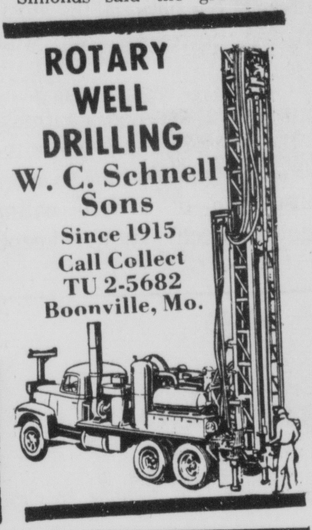

At the present, he pointed out, there is a great need for qualified and experienced regional planning directors. Universities are "graduating about one planner for every three jobs that are advertised," he said.

The federal government, according to Simonds, requires, through its Department of Housing and Urban Development, that a full-time director of planning be assigned to a city of 25,000 population or over.

"A part-time director (one day per week) is required for cities from 10,000 to 25,000 population. They place no requirements on those cities under 10,000 population."

"Of great importance," Simonds reported, "is the amount of monies that come down from the state or federal government in the form of matching grants or grants-in-aid in all forms. Many of the requests for assistance are predicated on the basis that the plan (regional planning) is the first step toward securing additional aid such as for sewer or water. If the federal monies are postponed for a long period, however, the development of many elements of the plan will also be delayed."

Patience, Understanding

The year just past saw no diminution in the popularity of that age-old and ultimate way of getting one's point across—the resort to force.

Americans' proclivity for physical protest is as old as the memory of tea floating in Boston Harbor and as new as tomorrow's headline about another antidraft demonstration.

Consider 1967:

The rights and wrongs of the Vietnam war were not so much debated as wrestled, with the biggest match of the year staged in the nation's capital.

An outspoken and sometimes obnoxious student minority pulled at the universities as if it were engaged in the annual frosh-soph tug of war.

Youth continued to make a big thing of thumbing their noses at their parents' false values by acting out a mad charade with marijuana and other dangerous props.

Detroit re-enacted the battle of Berlin and black power extremists issued new warnings about an imminent guerilla war in this country.

But what is remarkable about these sundry protests is their one-sidedness and isolated effect.

Yes, platoons of police and national guardsmen were frequently called out—sometimes regiments and battalions—to do some pushing and prodding in the name of public order and sometimes swing clubs and toss tear gas bombs and sometimes shoot.

But compared to the terrible draft riots in New York in 1863, the recent miserable little demonstrations in that city looked like temperance society tea parties. Even Detroit was mild in terms of casualties.

Conspicuously absent from the scene in 1967 was any mass uprising among those of the public aligned on the other sides of the various issues, any resorting to the same tactics of civil lawlessness to express their opinion in return.

Much is made of the average American's desire to remain "uninvolved." Maybe this is not always something to be deprecated. Maybe it is one reason why the excesses of the few have not been met with a wave of official repression.

With remarkable patience and growing understanding, most people are facing up to these new and threatening social developments. If there is any underlying general reaction, it is the realization that the root causes of our national ills must be discovered and corrected, not wished away.

Besieged, plagued, assailed, cautious of the future, the overwhelming majority of Americans in 1968 will continue to stage a real demonstration of a free nation's ability to govern itself. They're keeping their cool.

FBI Bug Picks Up Senator Long

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—During the bugging of lobbyist Fred Black's hotel suite, the FBI got an electronic earful about some of Washigton's most prominent personalities. There were titillating tidbits about everyone from Lyndon Johnson to the arch foe of evaesdropping himself, Sen. Ed Long, D-Mo.

It was particularly ironic that Long's name should wind up on the FBI tapes at the same time that he was conducting a determined campaign against government bugging. He was probing internal revenue eavesdropping while the FBI was eavesdropping indirectly on him. He did not know this, incidentally, until this week when he called him.

It was the FBI which first got the tip that Sen. Long was close to St. Louis Attorney Morris Shenker by listening to one of Fred Black's telephone calls. Apparently, this information was later leaked to Life Magazine, which exposed how Long and Shenker had been splitting law fees. Their relationship is now under investigation by the Senate Ethics Committee.

At 5:45 p.m. on February 9, 1963, Black telephoned gambler Ed Levinson in Las Vegas. Black said he had looked up Sen. Long at a Jackson Day dinner in Springfield, Mo., at the urging of Bobby Baker, then a senate aide. Long objected to talking to Black at the dinner because too many people were around, but arranged to meet Black on the plane to St. Louis the following morning at 5:30

On the plane, Sen. Long suggested that Black retain Morris Shenker to defens his income tax case. All this was told by Black to Levinson over the phone in Las Vegas. As Black recounted the conversation to Levinson, Black had objected to Long: "Ed, look if you hire this man, you're guilty before you start. Otherwise you don't hire him."

Black added that Baker wanted him "to go along with Long" but that he was "not about to go."

Sen. Long's Denial

When we asked Long about this alleged incident, he stated: "I have no recollection of ever meeting Fred Black, and I most certainly didn't meet him on an airplane at 5:30 in the morning."

However, the FBI bug on March 13, 1963, picked up a related conversation in the hotel suite between Black and Baker. Black repeated to Baker that he had no intention, despite Long's recommendation, of retaining teamsters' attorney Shenker of St. Louis. Black said his tax case was being handled in Kansas City by U.S. Attorney F. Russell Millin.

"Bobby, let met tell you something," said Black. "I have checked this Millin out. There ain't but one politician in the state of Missouri that this fella Millin is indebted to, and it is not Ed Long."

Baker asked who it was.

"Stuart Symington," replied Black.

Later, Black asked Baker whether LBJ would be in town the next day. Bobby said he doubted it.

Explained Black: "I got in the mail this morning three models of this house. I don't want to do anything until Johnson sees them. It is the most beautiful thing you ever seen."

We could find no evidence that Black had ever shown Johnson, then Vice Preisdent, any house models. This must have been a reference, as nearly as we can determine, to a model of the Apollo spaceship which Black gave to LBJ. Black represented North American Aviation, which was working on the $400 million Apollo contract. Johnson, as Vice President, was in charge of the space program.

FBI Rectitude

In their reports to J. Edgar Hoover, the G-Men described the bedroom scenes with stilted rectitude. They were equally sensitive about profanity. In their reports, they carefully ommitted all cuss words and merely substitute "profane" or "obscene" in their place.

The FBI also picked up a lot of inside senate strategy from the phone calls of Bobby Baker, who used Black's telephone to conduct senate business. Typical was his discussion of a commerce bill on March 29, 1963, with White House aide Mike Manatos, charged with pushing legislation for the Preisdent.

"Our problems," Baker explained on the phone to Manatos, "is that we have a lot of new frontier men." He said that Senators Burdick of North Dakota, Cannon of Nevada and Engle of California, all Democrats, would vote for the bill.

"We think Fulbright of (Arkansas) will be okay. We might not get Gore (of Tennessee) and Hill (of Alabama). Everett Jordan (of North Carolina) is against us, but if his vote is deciding, he may be absent."

Baker said he was concentrating on people he "thought were dangerous based upon previous votes," then warned Manatos: "If we don't pass this new compilation, your days at the White House are going to be limited."

Another time, Baker phoned Manatos from Black's suite to report on his efforts to get a commitment out of Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen on the tax bill. They had been unable to come to terms, Baker said, but added: "We reserve the right to clobber it (the bill) on the floor."

On the whole, the conversations in suite 300 at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel must have made fascinating listening for the FBI.

Guest Editorial

THE OREGONIAN: That'll Be the Day!—The class in elementary economics is in session.

Professor: As you saw in the papers, living costs are rising faster than income. Do you know what that means?

Student: That means we'll all go broke.

P. No, that means the President now has a good argument for his 10 per cent income tax increase.

S. But wouldn't that just make living costs all the higher and break us sooner?

P. That is not the way to look at it. If prices are going up, it shows people have too much money to spend and some of it should be soaked up in taxes.

S. How could they have too much money if they don't have enough to keep up with prices?

P. Oh, by the laws of economics the prices will come down when the people don't have so much money to spend.

S. That'll be the day. And then will the President give them back that 10 per cent?

P. That, young man, is not a question for me. Try Dr. Precinct in political science down the hall.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I'm taking a course at night school this fall in connection with my work. What records do I need to be able to deduct this expense on my tax return?

A — You should have records establishing that you are entitled to an educational deduction and which show how much you spent.

For education to be a deductible item it must either be required to keep your present salary, status or employment or it must be needed to maintain or improve the skills required in your present work. Education taken to meet the minimum requirements of your present job or to quality for a new job or business is not deductible.

A letter from your employer which states the purpose of the night course you are taking will help substantiate your claim for an educational deduction. Receipts, cancelled checks and bills for the tuition, books and other expenses of the night course can establish the amounts you spent.

If your employer pays for all or part of the course you are taking, do not claim a tax deduction for that portion of the educational expense.

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

Coin Designing is a Serious Business

Webster defines a coin as "a piece of metal stamped by government authority for use as money. A kind of recompense." Technically, he is correct but this restricts a coin to being just an instrument of trade, and it is really more than that. It could be more accurately described as a historical document that records for all times the aspirations and political motivations of a nation.

True, a coin is a piece of metal and in most cases a metal of intrinsic value, but in this case the coin itself is just a vehicle. The design is the authority of the issuing country, as is evidenced by our present sandwich quarters and dimes. These pieces contain an alloy of far less value than the value inscribed on the reverse but they have the same purchasing power as the silver coins. This is because the facts, recorded by a long history of dependable coinage, show that we are a nation that keeps a promise.

The design on a coin is a picture story in the oldest universal language known to man—heraldic art. In heraldic art, liberty, olive branches, laurel, stars, the shield and arrows are all abstract symbols of freedom dating back to the early Greek and Roman coins and each had the same interpretation then that they have now.

When a new nation decided to issue its own national currency, it was careful to select the abstract symbol that best portrayed its promise for the future. Usually this promise was one that would command the immediate respect of the world family of nations, thereby gaining their co-operation from the start.

So it was with the United States when in 1792 it began producing its own coinage. Our promise was liberty. The colonies had aspired to it. The Revolutionary war had committed us to it and the rest of the world was determined to hold us to it.

Since the goddess of liberty was the only abstract symbol we could use on our currency, the Congress specified in the Coinage Act of 1792 that the obverse of all coins bear "an impression emblematic of liberty with an inscription of the word Liberty and the year of the coinage. The reverse of all gold and silver coins must include the figure or representation of an eagle with the inscription United States of America."

Subsequent coinage acts added the two mottoes, "E Pluribus Unum" and "In God We Trust," along with the denomination. The use of the eagle was made optional on denominations of 10 cents or less.

In 1865 we acquired our first specific symbol in Abraham Lincoln, but it wasn't until he had become a tradition nearly a half century later, that his likeness was placed on a coin. Washington, Jefferson and Franklin existed prior to Lincoln but they were part of the original promise and their portraits would have been meaningless until someone else had put their promise to the test—and won.

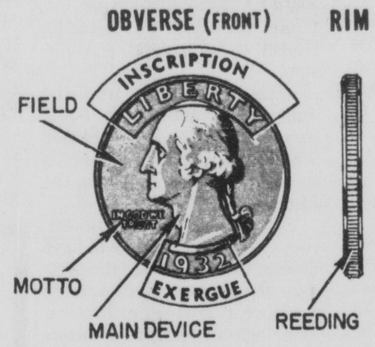

Today, 175 years after a promise was made, the portraits on our coinage document the fact that it was kept.

The late P. Hal Sims was the world's greatest auction bridge player, as we have often said. He carried his skill into contract and was the greatest contract bridge player in the early days of the new game.

One of Hal's rules for bidding was that the grand slam bonus was not big enough to warrant risking game and the small slam bonus, so that you should be particularly careful with grand slam bids. In fact, Hal would say, "I don't need to bid grand slams at all. If I do, I try to place them in no-trump. Trumps may not break or something may get ruffed in a suit contract. At no-trump these things can't happen to me."

Today's hand justifies Hal's theory about no-trump. With any decent break in spades there are 14 top tricks in either no-trump or spades. With all five spades in one hand, there are only 12 top tricks in no-trump and only 12 tricks of all kinds in spades.

At first glance it looks as if there is no real play for seven no-trump, but that is not the case. South was able to work out a perfect double squeeze for his grand slam.

It didn't require any super-skill—merely careful timing to develop the squeeze. The order of the early tricks did not matter too much. The important thing was to get out of dummy's way in the majors and to take the three top diamonds before running what spades South could. Actually he cashed his high spades and hearts and three diamond tricks. Then he entered dummy with the ace of clubs and played the king of hearts. West had been forced to discard a heart on the third diamond. He had to drop a club on the heart king. Then South cashed the king and jack of spades. East had to come down to two cards. One of them had to be a diamond, so he had to let a club go also. South discarded his last diamond and made the last two tricks with clubs.

Start of the Year

We know not what 'twill bring,
This year that's new,
And none of us know
If we'll see it through,
Yet new hope is within
Each person's heart
It always seems at every Year's new start;
As one year closes
And we hear its last bell toll
We face the new tith
More determined goals
No matter if last year
Was good or bad
Or if it has been very Bright or sad,
This is another year now
And God's grace
Will give us faith
Another year to face,
A new year and be we young or old,
Or in between
What for us will it hold?
Will it bring now
That prayed for, wanted peace?
Will it the tensions
Of the world release?
Will it feed hungry
And will it now give
Those who so need
A chance to really live?
Will it bring light to
Those who cannot see
The dreams of life
Without the LSD?
Will it now tame the wild
That they may feel
Delight in things
Wholesome and real?
Will it bring silence
To the loud discord
Of those who doubt
Existence of the Lord?
A new year and its
Joyful bells ring,
What, to a troubled world
Will it now bring?
Give to us, O, God,
The sense of right
To each of us,
Give now an inner sight
That all may know
Life in a humble way
And glorify each
Moment, day by day,
That we might feel
Your love and your power,
That each life grow
Abundantly and flower.

Letter to Editor

HARRY "WHELLER" DAVIS (Route 1, Warsaw) — I read with intense interest Betty Canary's comments regarding the activities and appointments concerning servicemen in general. I do not feel qualified to comment on the services in general, but I feel that I am qualified to speak for myself.

I have been in the TV appliance (Washers & Dryers) business for several years, and I would like to present the serviceman's view, at least from where I sit.

Not too long ago, I was called on a Sunday with what seemed to be more or less an emergency call, and after some discussion I agreed to make the call on the TV. It seemed that with the family and all, it was extremely important that the job be done immediately.

Upon arriving, I found two small children who couldn't have cared less whether the TV worked or not, but the husband stretched out on the divan wanted to watch a football game or something. Since I was already there, it seemed only fair to all concerned, including myself to go ahead with the repair.

With the completion of the needed repairs, and the set once more working, I closed up the tool case, and reached for the ticket book, while conversing with the lady who had appeared from presumably the kitchen. It didn't take her long to tell how glad she was to have the set repaired, for it had been out for almost a week and she had missed all her favorite soap operas. To top it off, the man then informed me that since he didn't have the cash handy, I should mail him a bill the first of the month, and that if he didn't run out of money he might pay me.

Such things as this, plus the ever-increasing problems of parts procurement, call-backs involving something entirely unrelated to the original complaint, and the five to eight hundred dollars that we carry on accounts that people have "run out of money for" all serve to make a serviceman a little on the grumpy side especially if he had had to borrow money from the bank to pay his bills.

With all due respect to the housewife, an appointment made should be kept, or a phone call made to explain why it cannot be kept. A serviceman is a lot like a doctor, in that he is expected to be prompt cheerful, clean and honest, and above all, he should remember that he has been invited into the customer's home, and should conduct himself as he would expect a visitor in his own home to do.

Johnson Pendulum

It is fortunate for President Johnson that he had Lynda's wedding and his grandson Lyn to give him some respite from his heavy duties for a brief period. Some mothers and grandmothers flinched when they saw on television the No. 1 Grandpa trying to make the five month old No. 1 Granchild walk. Even the President's grandson should not be expected to walk at that age, they thought. It was a relief to see the President set the child down gently after the exercise with a responsive smile on the baby's face.

The President is a poll watcher, but in spite of the announcement of Senator Eugene McCarthy's candidacy, Secretary McNamara's resignation, the Vietnam war, the surtax bill and other administration problems, the Johnson star has risen slightly. He recently gave the most dramatic, real-Johnson-type televised press conference of his whole presidential career. He is obviously getting ready to fight for re-election.

Money System Must Halt

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Once again it is the nation's money system that must depress the country's desire to spend more than it produces. In the view of many, the depressant should have been taxes.

Once again, also, business is faced with the dangers of monetary policy working alone, without the cooperation of fiscal policy, which is the taxing and spending strategy of the federal government.

By forcing member banks to keep idle some $550 million that ordinarily would be lent, the Federal Reserve Board, which controls the money supply, has relieved some inflationary pressures.

But it has, unavoidably, sounded a buzzer of fear also.

Few businessmen can forget that less than two years ago, in the absence of a tax increase, the Fed cut the credit hose, creating a drought of lendable funds and bringing the nation to the brink of a money panic.

If anything was shown by this performance it was that monetary policy uncoordinated with fiscal policy creates confusion and disorder almost as great as that it seeks to cure. The two cannot work in opposition.

That, however, is what has been occurring.

Late in 1966 the tightening process was reversed as fear developed that a recession was brewing. The money spigots were opened wide and a flood of money drowned the recessionary fears.

As this steady flow of money continued through the past year the fear of inflation again was added to the picture. Too many dollars were competing for goods and services. Prices were being bid up. And interest rates, ironically, were rising also.

The Fed maintained, however, that it had little choice but to continue the flow. It had to feed money to an expanding economy, keep an eye on the nation's adverse balance of payments, try to keep interest rates from going through the roof, finance a war.

All the while it expected momentarily assistance from a tax increase. This would have permitted it to continue feeding money to an expanding economy. But it would have relieved it of full responsibility for restraining that economy also.

The tax help never came, of course, and now the Fed is again going it alone, tightening the spigots again, even though the up-down reaction of the economy during the past two years is proof of the inherent dangers.

The impact of this latest move toward tighter money is larger than appears at first glance. Big city banks now will have to keep 17 per cent of their funds in reserve to pay off demands that might be made. The smaller country banks also will have to keep 12.5 per cent more in reserve.

This means that city banks will have to retire about $360 million of their funds. The country banks will have to forego lending about $190 million, the Fed estimated.

However, the final effect is much larger, for this total of $550 million would have been deposited and lent out again many times. The longer it is kept idle, therefore, the greater the impact.

In light of past events, this action by the Fed raises very serious questions in the minds of borrowers as to whether severe dislocations might be coming again. Perhaps the monetary mechanism is too cumbersome, they fear, because seldom can its effects be prophesied.

The net effect, therefore, will be more than financial. It will be psychological also.

The next few weeks should reveal whether or not business will read into this latest monetary action the beginning of another period of very tight money. If they do, then there could be an immediate rush for funds now — to ward off a shortage later.

Consumer Protection In KC

Norman H. Anderson, Attorney General, announced today the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office will open a Kansas City Area Office.

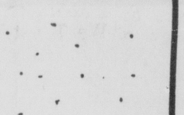

Anderson stated that the office will be formally opened on Jan. 3, 1968, at 9:30 a.m. He said the office will be located at 1103 Grand Avenue, Professional Building, Suite 332.

Anderson said the office will be staffed by Mr. Raymond Peltzman, a Special Assistant to the Attorney General, every Tuesday from 10 to 12 a.m. and on Thursday from 1 to 3 p.m. He said Brick Storts, Chief Counsel for the Consumer Protection Division, would be in the office every Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anderson said he would add to the office hours of the Kansas City Area Office as the need arises. He pointed out that the St. Louis Branch of the Consumer Protection Division was averaging approximately 20 to 25 complaints a day. He said that possibly there would be a need for full-time assistants in the Kansas City Area in the near future.

Anderson stated he will comment on the procedures of this office and the methods in which the Consumer Protection Law will be enforced so that it will not only protect the consumer but also the legitimate businessman.

HIGHWAY DEATH TOLL EASES

Traffic fatalities in the United States for the first nine months of 1967 were down somewhat (about 200 less) as compared with the same period in 1966 although, as map shows, there were increases in some states. National Safety Council estimates indicate 38,130 motor vehicle deaths between Jan.-Sept., 1967.

Military Desertions Are Few

BRUSSELS (AP) — Desertions from American forces in Europe have been few, military authorities say, despite feelings against the Vietnam war and a sizable loophole in the agreement that requires European nations to return deserters.

U.S. Army headquarters in Europe listed 335 men away without official leave on Nov. 1 out of 225,000, including 46 defectors to Eastern Europe. The Air Force says it has had no deserters in Europe for more than three years.

The Army says volunteers for Vietnam service are increasing, with 10,500 registered up to mid-August, compared with 14,000 for the whole of 1966.

More has been heard about deserters in Britain than anywhere else. In London the "Committee of 100" distributes leaflets urging American soldiers to desert or refuse to serve in Vietnam. A spokesman claimed that the number of those who do so is increasing, but he gave no figures.

Two young Americans in London—Harry Pinkus, 24, of New York city and Joel Gladstone, 27, of Teaneck, N.J.—have launched a drive to encourage American youths abroad to resist the draft. They took an ad in a London newspaper and some well known people responded with signatures and money, including the poet Stephen Spender and John Le Carre, author of "The Spy Who Came in from the Cold."

The loophole for deserters in Europe was found in an agreement signed by the 15 member countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The agreement binds them to turn over any member of an allied force who deserts. But some lawyers hold that when soldiers leave the country where they are stationed, their presence in a second country is not "in connection with their official duties." So they are not, strictly speaking, any longer members of an allied force.

There has been no confirmation by the Dutch government but there seems to be little to prevent an American soldier in Germany from getting pass for a short leave in Holland and then staying there. The bulk of U.S. forces is in Germany.

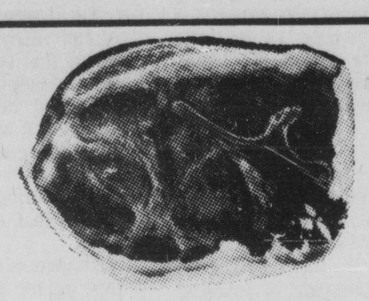

Many West Europeans oppose the Vietnam war, so it would not be hard for a deserter to find friends to help keep him from the authorities even if the legal loophole is closed.

The loophole would not prevent prosecution of a deserter if he returned to the United States. And it does not offer even temporary comfort to draft dodgers who have not been taken into the forces.

Wonder Why LBJ Took Up Golf?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Johnson isn't going to challenge any of his presidential golfing predecessors as a par-beater, but he has one distinction—none probably ever took a bigger divot.

"Like most large men, he muscles the ball too much—tries to murder it," says one playing companion. "The result is he frequently gets more turf than ball."

After three years during which he hardly touched a club, President Johnson in recent months has been slipping out to the course for nine holes here and nine holes there, playing with old cronies and his son-in-law, Pat Nugent.

Why the sudden interest in outdoor exercise?

"I'll tell you," said one friend. "The President is a big eater. He has begun to worry about his weight. He's a proud man. He wants to look fit and trim on television."

"I don't think so," said another. "I think he sees it as a chance to get closer to his sons-in-law, Nugent and Capt. Charles Robb. Both like to play golf, although they're not very good."

"No, it's Lady Bird," a spokesman close to the White House family insisted. "Lady Bird gets very concerned that the President works too hard and doesn't take enough breaks.

So Lady Bird has become—by choice—an occasional golf widow.

And Johnson has joined a long list of the nation's chief executives, dating back to William McKinley, who have sought relief from the cares of office by batting around the little white ball.

If horse racing is the sport of kings, then golf has become the sport of presidents. Like eight million of their constituents, they have found the golf course a good way of shedding tensions.

Johnson is neither the best nor the worst of them. He can't break 100—but nobody's supposed to know it.

As in the case of Dwight D Eisenhower, the most intense and dedicated of the golfing presidents, and the late John F. Kennedy, who had the potential of being the best, the President's golf scores are a guarded secret.

Johnson holds the club the way a man would a baseball bat. He takes a big cut at the ball but has little idea where it is going. Once at Burning Tree, on the first tee, he almost knocked the first ball between his legs. On his second try he hit a beautiful drive about 220 yards down the fairway.

"This is the result of lack of practice," a golfing companion explained. "He hits some good shots and some bad, more bad than good. He can't break 100. But he has good coordination and is strong. If he played more and took lessons, he might be fairly good.

Johnson's decisions to play golf usually are impulsive. Not even the Secret Service men know his plans until he gets in his car. He always catches the people at Burning Tree by surprise.

The pro at the exclusive Burning Tree Club on the outskirts of Washington—an unostentatious men's club where women are barred—is Max Elbin, a pleasant, youngish Pennsylvanian who has become known as the "Pro of the Presidents."

Jokers have said that Elbin contributes to the nation's security by curing the President's slice. He has had the distinction of teaching three of them—Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson.

"Mr. Eisenhower was by far the most intense and enthusiastic," Elbin says. "He really loved the game. Once on the course, he shut himself off from all other distractions. He poured himself into every shot.

"Ike was a fighter. He hated to blow a shot. When he did, he would berate himself but I never heard him use profanity. The worst word I ever heard him say was 'Darn!'

The late President Kennedy used Eisenhower's locker when he played at Burning Tree. Unlike Eisenhower, who always gave the club an hour's notice, Kennedy, like Johnson, was inclined to show up unannounced.

"Once," Elbin recalled, "Mr. Kennedy popped in wearing a sport shirt, khaki trousers and sneakers, walked into the kitchen and asked the cook, 'What's the soup today?' I thought the cook would faint."

Elbin said Kennedy, a natural athlete, had tremendous potential and probably could have been the best golfer of all the presidents had he devoted himself to it.

"I feel sure he could have shot in the middle 70s," the pro said. "He hit the ball a long way. But he had a history of back trouble and he never played more than nine holes. His mind always seemed to be on something else and he was in a hurry to get back to the White House."

Eisenhower's scores generally ranged in the high 80s and low 90s. Friends conceded he would have fared better had he taken more time on his putts and not had such a short temper fuse.

The first chief executive known to play the game was William McKinley before the turn of the century. At the time, golf was regarded as a snobbish sport played only by the wealthy.

In 1899, McKinley startled his friends and colleagues when he went to Hot Springs, Va., for some relaxation and put out feelers on whether it would be undignified for the chief executive of the United States to indulge in the pastime of the privileged.

There were warnings that if McKinley went ahead with his golf plans he would suffer in the elections. The Boston Evening Record ran a poll among its subscribers, asking for public opinion. The result was an almost equal division of those who opposed and approved the act.

It's reported that McKinley went ahead and played, anyhow, although in strictest privacy. This undoubtedly was the origination of the sanctity of a president's golf score.

Less concerned about popular reaction was the 300-pound William Howard Taft, who became a familiar figure around the tees of the Chevy Chase and Columbia clubs in the capital. A Washington newsman once reported seeing the hefty Taft take 12 strokes getting out of a sand trap. He reportedly counted every swing and took it all in high good humor.

Woodrow Wilson liked the sport so well that he often practiced chip shots on the White House lawn. He refused to be deterred even by snow, using painted balls and having them retrieved by a pet Airedale.

Golf did not become known as the "game of presidents," however, until the administration of handsome, debonair Warren G. Harding. Like Eisenhower, Harding became a real devotee, often inviting such famous players as Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen to the White House. Frequently his golfing companions included such well-known pros as Freddie McLeod, Leo Diegel and Bobby Cruickshank.

Eisenhower was the true devotee, playing golf as a general and then as a president. No other president, in peace or war, played or fretted over the game so much.

While an occupant at the White House, Eisenhower had a putting green, replete with flag stick and traps, constructed on the west side lawn. When tensions became heavy, he would grab his putter and find relaxation in knocking a few into the cup.

It is perhaps significant that the green is still there, with the flag still fluttering. President Johnson is not letting Lady Bird take it over for a rose garden.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR and Richard Burton star in "The Taming of the Shrew," as shrewish Kate and lusty Petruchio. A Burton-Zeffirelli production in Panavision and Technicolor, "The Taming of the Shrew" was directed by Zeffirelli from a screenplay by Paul Dehn, Suso Cecchi D'Amico and Zeffirelli. Richard McWhorter served as executive producer for the boisterous new Columbia Pictures release. Starts January 7th at the Fox Theatre.

Competition Is Tough On Blue Prints

NEW YORK (AP) — One of commercial aviation's keenest competitions is being waged on the drawing boards of three aircraft manufacturers and in the executive suites of airline firms.

The battle is to win the airlines' nod—and orders—for the so-called airbus, a jetliner capable of hauling up to 350 persons coast-to-coast.

The plane is at least two years away from flying.

Stakes in the competition are high in jobs and dollars. Air travelers the world over could be affected by the outcome.

The plane is designed to haul large numbers of persons in heavy traffic air routes. Hence, its name airbus—"a horrible name," said one airline executive. To comfort-minded airlines, the name denotes spartan-like accommodations.

The contenders in the competition are the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., McDonnell Douglas, and a joint effort by the British, French and German aircraft industries backed by their governments.

Lockheed is staking its commercial aviation come-back on the airbus but orders are needed before it starts production. Lockheed produced its last airline transport in 1962 when it turned out its 170th four-engine propjet Electra. It's been producing chiefly military craft since then.

Robert I. Mitchell, a Lockheed vice president, sees an airbus market for 300 planes by 1975 and perhaps 800 by 1980. The planes would cost about $16 million each.

McDonnell Douglas has only said publicly it is developing such a plane, to be called the DC10.

Lockheed calls its airbus the L1011, a three-engine jet with two engines slung beneath the wings—one on either side—and the third in the tail.

Its range has been boosted about 500 miles to 2,500 and its speed increased 30 miles per hour to 620 m.p.h.

Lockheed has aimed the plane at airports with runways of about 7,000 feet, which would include virtually all of the nation's commercial airports.

Eastern, Trans World Airlines and American admit to being interested in the airbus. United is less interested because of its super DC8 which carries 200 passengers.

While McDonnell Douglas is close mouthed about its airbus, industry sources say a sizable number of personnel has been assigned to work directly on the airbus at the firm's West Coast plant.

The European entry would be a twin-jet job. Involved are Britain's Hawker Siddeley Aviation, Sud Aviation of France and a German consortium, Deutsche Airbus GMBH. It would be a 230-to-300 passenger plane powered by Rolls Royce jets without coast-to-coast capability. The Europeans says they hope to begin building the plane next summer with the first flight planned in 1971.

Fares may come down with the airbus but not dramatically, said one source.

"I don't think you can run the business by flying a guy to the west coast for $50" compared to present $145 tourist class fares, he said.

Target of Doctors

LA MESA, Calif., (AP) — The medical staff wants to have two cigarette vending machines removed from hallways of Grossmont Hospital. The presence of the machines, which bring the hospital $6 a day profit, is "tacit to endorsing smoking," a physcian said.

Directors of the hospital appointed a two-man committee to prepare a report.

Programs Accepted

Yesterday's Radicalism In Today's Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ability of the American political system to transform controversial new legislation into broadly accepted programs was demonstrated anew by congressional action this year on the federal aid-to-education and antipoverty programs.

In the areas of Social Security, civil rights, welfare and labor relations, proposals that at one time seemed dangerously radical to a large part of the population are securely enshrined in the law books.

It could be happening again.

Just a few years ago the opposition to a federal school bill was so intense President John F. Kennedy had to abandon any hope of getting one passed. But the 90th Congress recently gave overwhelming approval to a bill extending the program through 1970 at a total authorization of $9.3 billion.

The antipoverty bill has touched off some of the fiercest fights in Congress during the last three years. But this year it won a two-year extension by a solid bipartisan vote and appears firmly established on the national scene.

The capacity of the body politic to absorb ideas it once resisted is largely a matter of timing and leadership. It was President Johnson who supplied the leadership that launched the antipoverty and school bills, but is was Congress that put them through the fires of controversy and tempered the opposition.

Both bills were originally passed by the 89th Congress, which Johnson called, "My Congress." With their huge majority, Democrats not only had no need of Republican support, they pointedly shunned it, preferring to drive the Republicans into an opposition role in the belief it would damage the GOP in urban areas.

It may have been smart politics, but as a legislative procedure it produced a sharp partisan division that jeopardized both programs in the much more closely matched 90th Congress, particularly in the House.

The administration made no concessions to the changed conditions in the House and early in the session both programs appeared on their way to being severely mangled. Convinced that the administration was out of touch with the House and the nation, key Democrats on the Education and Labor Committee forced through the changes that smoothed the road to passage for both measures.

In each case the keys to broadened support were amendments increasing the role of state and local authorities in the programs and weakening the federal government's role.

The resulting legislation was far from satisfactory to many of its warmest supporters.

"If the antipoverty bill is hailed as a victory," noted the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, "it is because the worst things Congress was generally expected to do to the poverty program were somehow avoided."

And those who never liked either program found nothing to cheer about in their continuation for two more years.

Successful

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Last year Carlos Treujique, 3, picked out a ticket that won $2,000 in Mexico's national lottery. This year, he improved, coming up with a $24,000 ticket. His father carried Carlos, now 4, to the cashier's window to pick up his money.

Mrs. Samuel Francis Berendzen

Miss Barbara Ann Bazin Marries Mr. Samuel Francis Berendzen

Miss Barbara Ann Bazin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bazin, 1113 West Third, and Mr. Samuel Francis Berendzen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Berendzen, Jefferson City, repeated wedding vows at 12 o'clock the afternoon of Wednesday, December 27, at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church. The Rev. Father Lawrence Growney performed the ceremony before an altar adorned with poinsetties and the Communion rail appointed with standing sprays of nobel fir and holiday red velvet bows. Fir and red velvet bows also marked the family pews.

Mrs. Dorothy Fennewald, Jefferson City, played traditional wedding songs on the organ and Mr. Clarence Blume, Jefferson City, sang "Ave Maria," "Ave Verum," "Panis Angelica," and "Now Joined by God and Mother Beloved," which he sang during the presentation of a single red rose by the bride, at the Blessed Mother's altar.

Mr. John Bazin, brother of the bride, and Mr. Joe Berendzen, Jefferson City, brother of the groom were servers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was escorted down the aisle which was centered with a white bridal carpet. She wore a smooth white crepe empire style gown with three quarter length sleeves. Her cathedral train was attached at the wedding ring collar, and her two tiered soft white cathedral length veil fell from a white mink pill box. The bridal flowers were an arm bouquet of 16 long stem Happiness roses.

Miss Marybeth Bazin, sister of the bride, maid of honor, and Miss Nan Weiler, Hastings, Neb., Miss Carolyn Kolb, Jefferson City, bridesmaids, and Miss Kathy Bazin, sister of the bride, junior bridesmaid, wore red velvet gowns identical to the bridal gown and carried white fur muffs with crescents of holly tied with red velvet tubing.

Paul Berendzen, brother of the groom, Jefferson City, acted as best man, with Joe A. Bazin, brother of the bride, and Marc Markway, Jefferson City, as groomsmen. Ushering duties were performed by Dan Berendzen, cousin of the groom, Gene Lindsay, Dennis Jungmeyer, and John Branstetter, Jefferson City.

The flower girl, Miss Julie Bazin, sister of the bride, wore a red velvet ensemble identical to the junior bridesmaid. She scattered red rose petals from a basket tied with red velvet bows.

Mrs. Bazin wore a jacket dress of mint green with matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Berendzen wore a beige jacket dress highlighted with a cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception was held from 2 to 4 p.m. at the bride's home with approximately 200 guests in attendance. Christmas decorations gave the home a festive air, and servers were Mrs. Albert Happy, Mrs. Charles Voracek, and Mrs. Harry Agniel, all of Jefferson City; with Mrs. Jerry Rimer, Warrensburg, and Mari Kay Dulle, Jefferson City, in charge of the guest book.

Assisting generally were Miss Linda Berendzen, Miss Emily Frank, Miss Veronica Szigety, Mrs. Albert W. Happy, Jr., Mrs. H. M. Agniel, Mrs. C. J.Voracek, Jefferson City; Miss Candy Taylor, Kansas City; Miss Cathy Cannon, St. Louis; Miss Martha Rudisill, Miss Karen Owen, Miss Sue Cook, Miss Carol Cooney, Miss Beth Freese, Sedalia; and Miss Lana Bazin, Leawood, Kan.

Grandparents of the groom attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sanning, Morey's Home; Mrs. Joe Bazin, Franklin, Kan.; Mrs. John Macari, Sedalia. ## New Year's TV Spread Plentiful

EDITOR'S NOTE—Traditionally, on Thanksgiving Day the family gathers round the dinner table. On Christmas Eve, they draw near the fireside. On New Year's Day, the center of attraction is the Television Set. From morn till night, there's a constant parade of parades and bowl games. This year is no different. The networks have scheduled nearly 12 hours of flora and football.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There was a time when New Year's Day was a quiet holiday, devoted to healing the excesses of revelry in ringing out the old year.

But, with the advent of the coaxial cable and network television's affection for scheduled events held in predetermined locations, New Year's Day has emerged as a living room festival of parades and football games. It is now a beer-soft drink-and-potato chip occasion.

Upwards of 60 million Americans will relax before their television sets and watch for almost 12 solid hours the Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowl games and their accompanying parades. The greatest interest remains centered in the grande dame of them all, Pasadena's Tournament of Roses Parade and its Rose Bowl game.

The Tournament of Roses Parade was a venerable Southern California institution—over 40 years old—before most people in other parts of the nation were aware of its existence. Then in 1932, NBC began an annual radio broadcast of the event. Exactly 20 years later, the network focused its television cameras on the event for the first time, and two years later switched from black and white telecasting to color.

This Tournament of Roses Parades will be the 78th annual event.

From a few casually draped buggies, the procession has increased until now there are some 60 ornate floats, at least 100 horse units and 65 bands. Participants come from all over the United States to strut or ride over the five-and-one-half-mile route.

The emphasis, despite the injection of considerable commercialism in the parade, remains on flowers. The 60 floats are covered with them.

Betty White, the dean of Tournament of Roses commentators after 14 consecutive years of heading up NBC coverage, says that while the parade is an impressive spectacle, the most interesting sight is the warehouses all over Pasadena temporarily transformed into floral workshops.

"It used to be that the rules required that every flower be placed on the float separately. Then it was impossible to get good skin tones," Betty said. "They used to try by using blues—bachelor buttons and delphinium—but they were hard to get at that season and not right. Now they are able to use petals—and it is some sight to watch those people carefully and tirelessly gluing on one petal after another—they use chrysanthemums mostly because they stand up better—for hours and hours."

Each float costs about $20,000, absorbs at least 50,000 flowers and takes hundreds of man-hours to make.

"I love that parade," the actress said. "Even after all the years I've worked on it, I still get carried away emotionally when I see the result and think about the way they worked day and night on the floats."

Punt Returns By Anderson Win For Blue

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—All America Dick Anderson of Colorado scored two touchdowns on long punt returns Saturday to give the North a 22-16 victory in the Blue-Gray football game.

The 6-2, 198-pound defensive back from Boulder, Colo., scampered 69 yards for one score in the first period and 62 yards for another touchdown in the final quarter.

Anderson's second scoring run almost came to a halt at midfield, but big McKinley Boston of Minnesota broke him loose with a ferocious block. Anderson himself had wriggled free from two tacklers before he got into the open.

Never before in the 29-year history of the all-star game had any player managed to run more than one punt back for a touchdown.

Anderson's performance won him the most valuable player award on the balloting in the press box.

The rest of the Yankee scoring came on a safety in the closing minutes of the game and from the kicking toe of Joe Azzaro of Notre Dame. Azzaro booted field goals of 32 and 26 yards and scored one point after touchdown.

The safety went onto the scoreboard when halfback Bobby Duhon of Tulane was tackled in the South's end zone.

Except for Anderson's spectacular punt returns, the Yankees exhibited a rather dismal offensive punch. They went for more than two quarters without a first down and managed to gain only four yards in the second period, three of those on a pass.

A near sellout crowd of 23,350 and uncounted millions of others on national television saw the Yanks win their second game in a row and their 13th in the Blue-Gray series.

The South's offense was generated primarily by quarterback Ronny South of Arkansas. He threw two touchdown passes and kicked a 35 yard field goal.

The 193 - pound senior from Russellville, Ark., who gained more than 1,100 yards in passing during the regular season this year, found Freddie Hyatt of Auburn on the receiving end of both scoring passes.

One of them traveled 58 yards a Blue-Gray record.

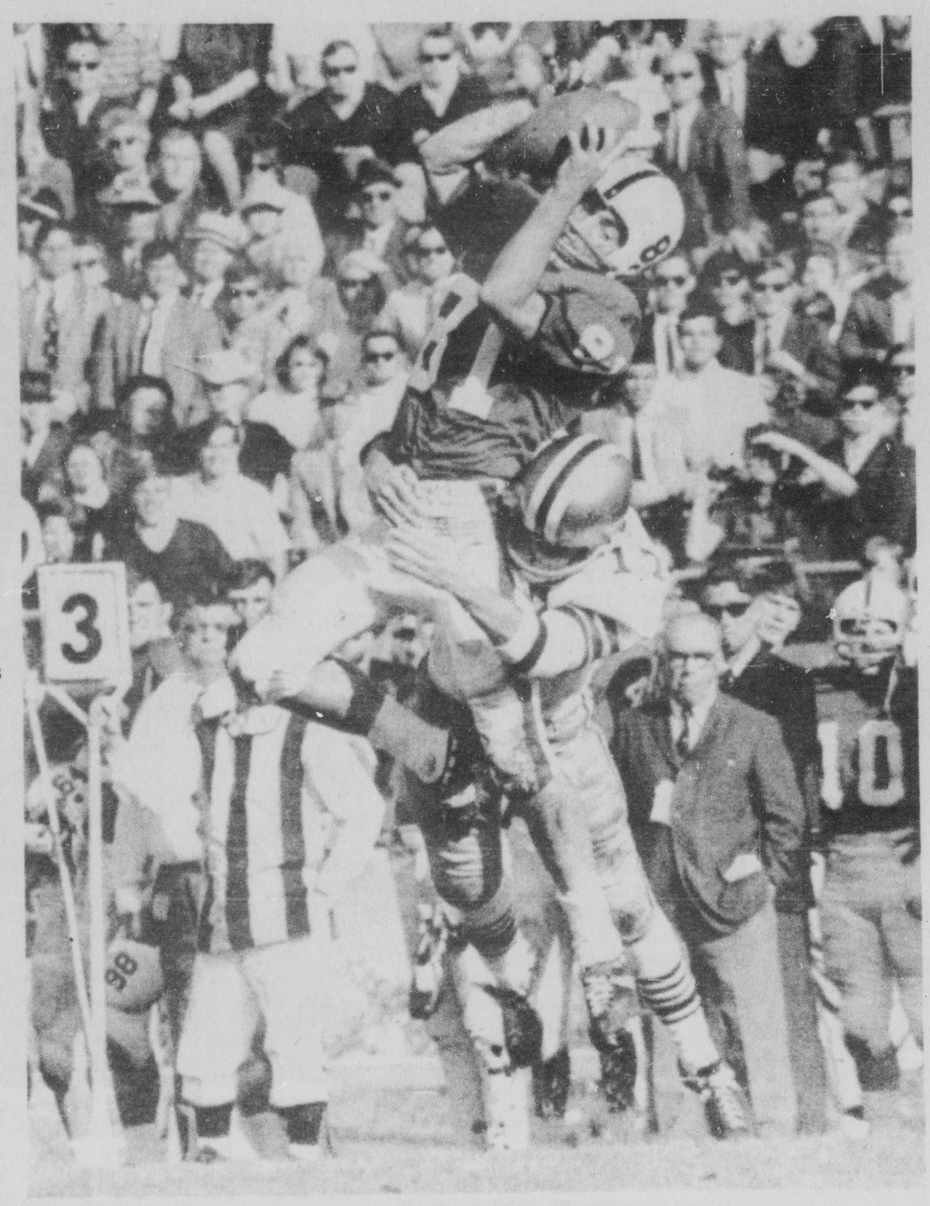

Again and again during the game played in 45 degree weather under bright sunny skies, the North's punter, Tom Busch of Iowa State, kept the Yanks out of trouble with long spiraling kicks. Four of his nine punts traveled more than 50 yards.

Unitas Receives Football Honor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Touchdown Club announced Saturday the selection of Baltimore quarterback Johnny Unitas as its professional football player of the year.

Successful Pass Play

Jacksonville, Fla.—Penn State end Jack Curry (81) goes up to take a gaining pass from quarterback Tom Sherman in second period Gator Bowl action. Making the stop is Florida State defensive back Mike Page (17).

Seminoles Rally To Tie Penn State In Wild Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sharp-shooting Kim Hammond wiped out a 17-point deficit with a record passing performance and led Florida State to a 17-17 tie with daring Penn State Saturday in a wild Gator Bowl football game.

The Nittany Lions blew their halftime lead with a wild gamble and a costly fumble after controlling the first half with the help of defensive surprises prepared in 10 days of secret drills and the clutch passing of quarterback Tom Sherman.

But the surging Seminoles came back after Penn State gambled and failed on a fourth and one situation in the third quarter on their own 15.

Hammond tossed a 20-yard scoring strike to All-America end Ron Sellers and when Penn State fumbled away the following kickoff, Hammond capped a 22-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown leap.

Grant Gutherie kicked a 25-yard field goal with 15 seconds left to give the Seminoles a tie, something Florida State Coach Bill Peterson said he would never settle for in a bowl game.

Hammond hit on 37 of 53 passes for 362 yards, shattering Gator Bowl records in all departments, and Sellers hauled in 14 catches for 145 yards with his receptions setting a new standard.

Sherman was erratic but hit when he had to, tossing a nine-yard pass to Jack Curry late in the second quarter and then hitting Ted Kwalick with a 12-yard scoring strike just before the half.

The Lions, shuffling their defensive backfield to cope with the Seminole passing attack, kept Florida State off balance in the first half, and got great running from sophomore halfback Charlie Pittman.

The 182-pound speedster gained 105 yards rushing in the first half, but added only 19 in the last two quarters when the Seminoles took charge of the battle played before a record crowd of 68,019.

Penn State gained only 37 yards rushing and did not complete a pass in the second half.

But the Lions kept the Seminoles from scoring a winning touchdown in the final seconds, with defensive back Frank Spaziani knocking a desperation pass out of the grasping hands of Sellers in the end zone with 20 seconds left.

Gutherie then booted his clutch kick despite a chorus of boos from Seminole fans, who earlier in the year watched Florida State settle for a tie against Alabama.

Peterson said on the eve of the game he had no regrets about going for a tie against Alabama in a regular tame, but he added, "I'd go to win in a bowl game."

However, with the ball on the 15 and fourth down coming up, he sent in Gutherie for the tying kick.

Iowa, Lamar Tech Set Track Meet Records

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Larry Wieczorek of Iowa and the Lamar Tech mile relay team set Sugar Bowl track meet records here Saturday.

Wieczorek was named the outstanding cinderman in the meet when he won the three-mile race in the record snapping time of 13:34.0, wiping out a mark set in 1962 by Bruce Kidd of the University of Toronto. The old record was 13:37.9.

Lamar Tech mile relay squad also broke a meet record covering the mile in a time of 3:12.3. The old standard was held by Iowa with a 3:13.8 clocking in 1962.

John Mason of Fort Hays State won the mile in 4:07.0. Conrad Nightingale of Kansas State was third and Carey Hollis, Oklahoma, fourth.

Larry Curts, Oklahoma State, won the pole vault at 14 feet. Larry Smith of Oklahoma was second.

Oklahoma placed fourth in the 440 relay won by Southern University in 41.6.

Mildenberger, making his sixth successful title defense, weighed 205¾ pounds. Zech came in at 224½. Both are Germans.

NEW 44 FOR ORANGE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Though he has missed much action this season because of a sprained knee, sophomore quarterback Rich Panczyczyn (PAN-sition) has much to look back on.

In his debut against Baylor his 88 rushing yards were more than the yards gained in a debut by previous sophomore wearers of No. 44.

All-America Floyd Little gained 82 yards in his varsity debut. Jim Brown 40 and Ernie Davis 30.

After five games Tom Fambrough of West Texas State had a perfect record in kicking extra points. He made 19 for 19.

"Love," says Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty, "is a tennis term meaning no score."

Milliken Defeats Kirksville State

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Jerry Hill with 25 points and Jesse Price with 21 led Millikin to a 100-83 victory over Kirksville State Saturday for fifth place in the Quincy College Basketball Tournament.

Paul Ozug topped the losers, who trailed 48-31 at halftime, with 30 points.

Washburn of Kansas trimmed Western New Mexico 102-70 for seventh place. Washburn, piling up a 50-31 intermission bulge, was topped by Ron Burkholtz with 22 points while Bob Haack headed Western with 20.

Ryun Is Voted Top Athlete

LONDON (AP) — Jim Ryun, University of Kansas miler who lowered the world record to 3:51.1 last June, was voted the world's outstanding athlete Saturday in a poll of The Associated Press' European sportswriters.

Billie Jean King, the bouncy Californian who won both the Wimbledon and Forest Hills tennis titles, was rated the No. 1 woman athlete.

Wally Lemm Fears Blanda Most Of All

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — One of the men Coach Wally Lemm of Houston fears most when his Oilers play the Oakland Raiders here Sunday for the American Football League championship and a Super Bowl berth is old man George Blanda, 40.

Blanda quarterbacked the Oilers when they won the 1961 AFL championship for Lemm. His four field goals were the winning margin when the Raiders beat the Oilers at Houston, 19-7, three weeks ago.

"We'll have to prevent the Raiders crossing the 50-yard line," Lemm observed. His team has the best defensive record in the AFL, only 199 points allowed opponents in 14 games. Oakland has yielded 233, second best.

The game, pitting Eastern champion Houston, 9-4-1, against Western king Oakland, with a 13-1 record, will be televised at 5 p.m. EST, with Northern California blacked out.

A sellout crowd of 53,000-plus in the new Oakland Coliseum assures a record gate of $500,000-plus.

There will be a record $864,000 in radio and television receipts. Of the TV-radio money, $345,600 goes into the player benefits and pension fund. The other $518,400 and gate receipts go into the game funds, of which 36 per cent of the net will go to the winning players: 29 per cent to the losers; 10 per cent to the winning club and 9 to the loser and 16 per cent to the league.

Each winning player will receive about $6,500, each loser $5,000.

Houston or Oakland led the league in most statistics this season, both offensive and defensive, and had some of the individual leaders.

Oakland's John Rauch is Coach of the Year and qurterback Daryle Lamonica is Most Valuable Player.

Oakland's Blanda is AFL scoring leader with 116 points, every one on place kicks: 20 field goals and 56 conversions.

Lamonica threw the most touchdown passes, 30, and was the leading passer on statistics of 220 of 425 completed for 51.8 per cent and 3,228 yards.

Houston's Zeke Moore is the kickoff return champion, with an average of 28.9 on 14 returns for 405 yards, including a 92-yarder.

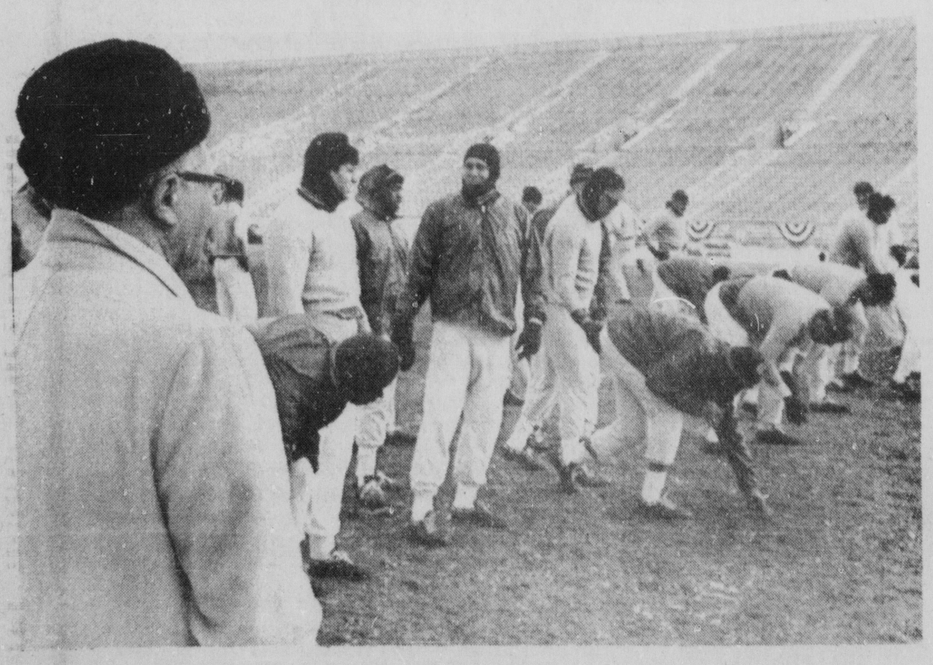

Oiler Miller Farr shares the interception laurels with two others at 10 each, but leads in yards returned, 264, and touchdown, 3.

Houston's Pete Beathard is ninth in passing with 94 completions in 231 throws for 40.7 per tions in 231 throws for 40.7 per cent, 1,114 yards and 9 touchdowns.

Houston fullback Hoyle Granger is second in rushing with 1,194 yards on 236 carries, including a 67-yarder. Oakland's Hewritt Dixon carried 153 for 559, with a 40-yarder, and Pete Banaszak 68 for 376 and a long run of 40. Oiler halfback Woodie Campbell rushed 110 times for 511 with a 42 long.

Oakland's Mike Eischeid, with a couple of 60-yarders last Sunday, is second in punting with a 44.3 average, topping Oiler Jim Norton's 42.6.

Oakland's Roger Bird is runnerup among punt returners with 46 for 612 yards, a long of 78 and a 13.3 average. His average is topped only by Floyd Little of Denver, who averaged 16.9 on only 16 returns.

Crippled Children Benefit Show Set

After a two-week absence, professional wrestling will return to Convention Hall Tuesday night when the annual Crippled Children benefit show is set.

A four-event program, beginning at 8:15, is planned under the sponsorship of Pettis County Post No. 16 of the American Legion.

One of the pro ranks heftiest ring performers, Klondike Bill, will be on hand to make his intitial area appearance. The 6-1, 325-pound titan is pitted against the Viking in a clash that figures to provide extra excitement.

The Viking has been one of the leading area roughers since the new season got under way. He'll be spotting the Alaska newcomer almost 100 pounds.

A mixed tag team event is lined up as the semifinal. In that action, leggy Kay Noble will join forces with the 275-pound Ox to oppose brawny Bob Geigel and his peppery partner, Betty Niccoli.

The Ox only recently returned to the Midlands and already has made his presence felt. The big fellow, showing more speed than usual, continues to make the bear hug his chief offensive weapon, but he was widened his assortment to include a number of other effective holds.

In another test, Bob Brown will tackle Ronnie Etchison.

Rounding out the benefit program will be a battle between Noble and Niccoli.

Vicious Defense Wins For El Paso

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A vicious defense kept Mississippi in check Saturday until a slumbering offense awoke for two fourth-quarter touchdowns and a 14-7 victory for the University of Texas at El Paso in the Sun Bowl game.

"We had heard a lot about their offense," Ole Miss Coach Johnny Vaught said, "but someone neglected to emphasize their defense to us. Their defense is every bit as good as their offense."

The Miners limited Mississippi to only 109 yards total offense, spotted Ole Miss a 7-0 halftime lead and then flashed back with two last-period touchdowns.

"You guys played your hearts out," El Paso Coach Bobby Dobbs told his Miners, "and I'm the proudest guy in the world."

Quarterback Billy Stevens completed seven of eight passes on a 66-yard touchdown drive for El Paso's first touchdown. He passed five yards to flankerback David Karns for the TD, and Jerry Waddles kicked the extra point that gave the Miners a 7-7 tie early in the period.

Seven minutes later, 235-pound El Paso linebacker Fred Carr jarred the ball loose from Mississippi's Bow Bowen, and defensive tackle Dennis Bishop recovered for the Miners on the Ole Miss 22.

Fullback Larry McHenry carried four successive times, gaining 18 yards on one haul, before plunging across from four yards out to give the Miners the winning touchdown. Waddles again kicked the extra point.

A record crowd of 34,685 watched the 33rd annual classic which pitted the Rebels of the Southeastern Conference and the independent Miners, who join the Western Athletic Conference next season.

The stingy El Paso defense, which allowed six first downs, recovered two fumbles, intercepted a pass and didn't let the Rebels' offensive unit past the El Paso 40-yard line except for Ole Miss' second-quarter TD.

The Ole Miss defense set up the Rebels' score when linebacker Mac McClure intercepted a Stevens pass and ran 49 yards to the El Paso one.

After Ole Miss lost one yard on a play quarterback Bruce Newell ran around left end for the touchdown, and Van Brown kicked the extra point for the Ole Miss 7-0 halftime lead.

Stevens, voted the outstanding player of the game, was continually spilled for losses in the first 2½ quarters but the senior quarterback, who was closing his collegiate career with a NCAA record 52 touchdown passes, completed 13 of 26 passes for 155 yards againstOle Miss.

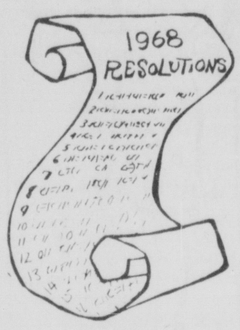

Carr, named the most valuable lineman of the game, was in on five tackles while El Paso defensive halfback Eugene Epps made 10 unassisted tackles and intercepted a fourth-quarter Ole Miss pass.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

THE New Year is here. Time to draft those vgreat resolutions on what reforms you will practice for the coming year.

The past year has been a great one for Sedalia and progress is well on its way. The growing and better things to come will without a doubt have a great affect on sports. The only sad outlook in sports for the city is the loss of the Missouri State Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament, but too many other activities caused the lack of attendance which had to be built in the swing to support this tournament, and it is too bad.

But there are other sports activities which will indulge many and should attract more and those are the Little League, Babe Ruth, Ban Johnson, and Khoury leagues. We hope Sedalia parents and others will continue to give their hearty support to those youth programs. Put this on your resolutions list—and keep it.

THE Year 1968 should show a big advance in the sports activity at Smith-Cotton High School, especially when football season rolls around. Coach "Chuck" Shelton and his crew of assistant coaches are a gi:at combination, and I am sure from the results of the past season they'll be better in '68.

Top Tennessee Receiver Not At Peak Strength

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tennessee's ace pass receiver, Richmond Flowers, apparently will play but will not be at full strength for the Orange Bowl football game against Oklahoma Monday night.

Hobbled earlier in the week by a bruised knee, and stricken later with a respiratory infection, the fleet Olympic hurdler from Montgomery, Ala., was held out of practice again Saturday in an attempt to conserve strength.

"Richmond's fever broke overnight, but he is still weak," said Tennessee trainer Mickey O'Brien.

"Also, he still limps a bit because of his bruised knee."

Coach Doug Dickey said, "We expect Flowers to play, but we don't know whether he will be able to go at full steam."

Bill Baker was named to start at Flowers' wingback post.

Flowers was the principal target during the season for quarterback Dewey Warren, catching 41 passes, four for touchdowns.

Barrett is one of the Sooners' best defensive men against passes.

Failure of Flowers to be in top health would be a damaging blow to second ranked Tennessee, a 6½-point favorite over third-ranked Oklahoma in a game between two light, fast teams so much alike that they might be twins.

The night contest, with an 8 p.m. EST kickoff, climaxes a full day of New Year's Day bowl activity. NBC is televising it nationally.

Both the Volunteers and Sooners swept to conference championships on 9-1 records that made tem the closest challengers to Southern California for the national championship.

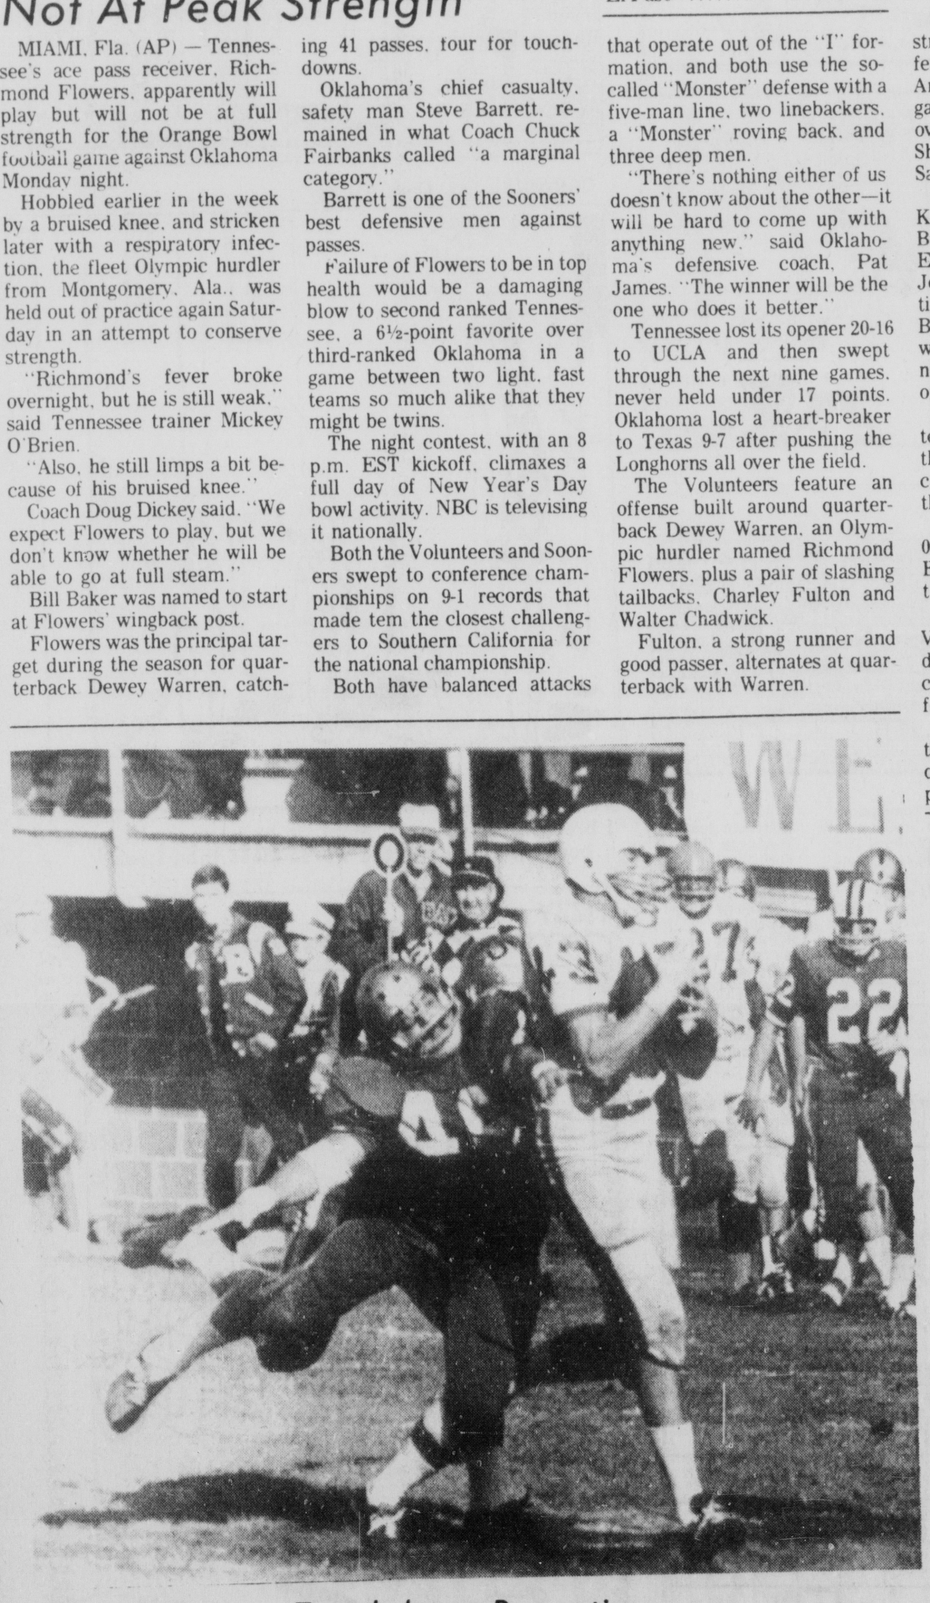

Both have balanced attacks that operate out of the "I" formation, and both use the so-called "Monster" defense with a five-man line, two linebackers, a "Monster" roving back, and three deep men.

"There's nothing either of us doesn't know about the other—it will be hard to come up with anything new," said Oklahoma's defensive coach, Pat James. "The winner will be the one who does it better."

Tennessee lost its opener 20-16 to UCLA and then swept through the next nine games, never held under 17 points. Oklahoma lost a heart-breaker to Texas 9-7 after pushing the Longhorns all over the field.

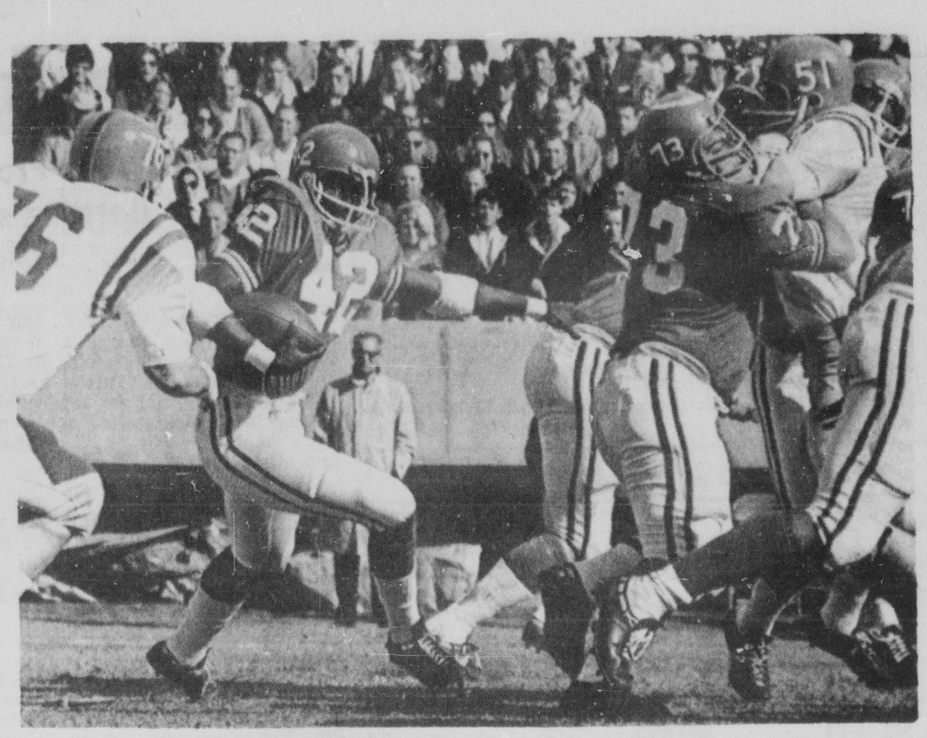

The Volunteers feature an offense built around quarterback Dewey Warren, an Olympic hurdler named Richmond Flowers, plus a pair of slashing tailbacks, Charley Fulton and Walter Chadwick.

Over Dallas Cowboys

Packers Are Favored In NFL Title Contest

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay's solid old professionals, fresh from an inspired victory over Los Angeles, are favored to make football history against the explosive Dallas Cowboys in Sunday's National Football League title game at Lambeau Field.

Vince Lombardi's battle-tested warriors are shooting for an unprecedented third straight playoff title against a Cowboy team that blew Cleveland out of the Cotton Bowl last Sunday, 52-14 for the Eastern Conference crown.

A sellout crowd of 50,861 is expected to watch in frigid weather while the Packers and Cowboys battle for a winner's share of about $7,800 each and a chance at the $15,000 jackpot in the Super Bowl Jan. 14 at Miami against the American Football League champion.

The game shapes up as a brutal battle up front between the Packers' rebuilt interior line and the Cowboys' Doomsday Defense that will determine whether Bart Starr can recapture the magic that led Green Bay to a 34-27 victory in a dramatic thriller last Jan. 1 at the Cotton Bowl.

When Dallas has the ball it will be the same type of struggle by Willie Davis and Co. to try to charge past the Cowboys' protective curtain for Dandy Don Meredith, the erratic but often brilliant passer.

Memories of last New Year's Day championship game still are fresh in both camps. Dallas has lived all year with its failure to cash in on a first-down-and-one situation on the Packer two-yard line in the final seconds and the final frustration when Tom Brown intercepted a Meredith pass thrown with Packer Dave Robinson draped around his shoulder.

Bob Hayes, billed as the fastest human, caught only one pass in that memorable game when he was shadowed by Green Bay's Bob Jeter and Herb Adderley. He caught only two when the Packers beat the Cowboys 20-3 in an Aug. 28 exhibition game.

If the Cowboys are to up end the one-touchdown favorites it will be up to Meredith to hit Hayes and Lance Rentzel, the speedy flanker, while establishing ball control on the running of Dan Reeves, Don Perkins and rookie Craig Baynham.

The game will be carried on national television and radio (CBS) at 2 p.m. EST with the Green Bay and Wausau areas blacked out on TV.

If Lombardi is to reach his goal of three in a row, Starr must get time to pick the Cowboy defense apart with his third-down passes to Carroll Dale and Boyd Dowler while maintaining possession with the running of his injury-riddled backfield corps.

Travis Williams, the Packers' spectacular rookie running back who set an NFL record by returning four kickoffs for touchdowns, will share the running chores with Donny Anderson, the former Texas Tech wonder; and Chuck Mercein, the New York Giant castoff who found the pot of gold in icy Green Bay. Both Ben Wilson and Jim Grabowski are injured and probably will see little action, if any at all.

Dallas never has beaten Green Bay except in two exhibition games. They seldom meet because they are in different conferences but the Packers hold a 4-0 edge.

Lombardi, since coming to Green Bay in 1959 has won six of nine Western Conference crowns and is 4-1 in title games.

Seven clubs have won two playoff titles in succession but nobody has made the third. Green Bay did take three league championships in 1929-30-31 before the NFL was split into conferences for playoffs. Dallas' only previous conference championship came last year.

In the event of a tie the game will go into sudden-death overtime with the first team to score taking the title and meeting the Oakland-Houston winner in the Super Bowl.

The television and radio rights are worth $2 million, of which $975,000 goes into the players' pension fund, $200,000 to the league office and the remaining $825,000 into the game receipts. The players split 70 per cent of the game receipts on a 60-40 basis after taxes, expenses and second- and third-place money have been deducted.

East Grinds Out Victory Over West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A strong ground game and a defense that completely stifled All-American Gary Beban of UCLA gave the East a 16-14 triumph over the West in the 43rd annual Shrine charity football game Saturday.

Notre Dame's All-American Kevin Hardy, Toledo's Tom Beutler—a substitute on the East squad—and Minnesota's John Williams spent so much time in the West backfield that Beban might have thought they were teammates—if they had not dumped him for losses so often.

The East took a 3-0 first-quarter lead, and was ahead, 9-7 at the half after the teams exchanged 37-yard touchdowns in the second period.

Before a sellout crowd of 48,000 in Candlestick Park, the East went ahead 16-7 in the third period.

Quarterback Gary Davis of Vanderbilt gambled with fourth down and three yards to go but couldn't find a receiver and ran four yards into the end zone.

The West came back with a touchdown in the fourth quarter on Beban's five-yard pass to Phil Odle of Brigham Young, his chief but seldon-hit target all afternoon.

A 28-yard pass to San Diego State's Haven Moses had set it up. Moses caught the earlier West touchdown pass.

The West had started on the East 37-yard line. A 58-yard punt by Bob Lee of University of the Pacific went out on their three-yard line and the East was forced to punt.

Exciting Matches On Gridiron Monday

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern California puts its national prestige on the line, unbeaten Wyoming makes its first appearance in a major post-season tilt, Alabama comes of age and Tennessee and Oklahoma match high-powered offenses Monday.

That's when college football officially closes out the 1967 campaign and rings in the New Year with the four big bowl games — the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange. Six among the teams placed in the final national rankings.

The matchups are Southern California, 9-1, vs. Indiana, 9-1, in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.; Wyoming, 10-0, vs. Louisiana State, 6-3-1, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans; Alabama, 8-1-1, vs. Texas A&M, 6-4, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and Oklahoma, 9-1, vs. Tennessee, 9-1, in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla. The latter is the only night game.

Tennessee, LSU and Alabama are one-touchdown favorites while Southern Cal is a two-touchdown choice to beat the Hoosiers, playing in the Pasadena classic for the first time.

It'll be a field day for football fans who may be too exhausted from the previous night's celebrating to do much more than struggle to within viewing range of their television sets.

About 320,000 persons are expected to see the games in person. Anticipated attendances are 100,000 for the Rose Bowl, 75,000 for the Sugar and Cotton and 70,000 for the Orange Bowl.

Southern California was first and Indiana fourth in The Associated Press' final regular season poll. Tennessee finished second, Oklahoma third, Wyoming sixth and Alabama eighth. LSU and Texas A&M were not rated among the first 10.

Alabama will be playing in its 21st bowl game — more than any other among the nations colleges. Wyoming was the only unbeaten, untied college team during the '67 campaign. Forecasts of a wide-open Orange Bowl tilt between Tennessee and Oklahoma are based on season performances. The Sooners averaged 26.9 points a game and the Vols slightly more than 25.

ROSE BOWL — Southern California the Pacific-8 Conference title holder, has more than a few things going for it. They include O.J. Simpson, the sensational All-American halfback, a long history of victories in this game plus greater size and speed than Indiana.

The Hoosiers, though, were underdogs in seven of their 10 season games, including the last one in which they upset Purdue to gain the Pasadena trip and cochampionship of the Big Ten. Leroy Keyes, the Boilermakers' All-American back, did not score against Indiana and the Hoosiers hope to contain Simpson as effectively.

The Trojans were beaten only by Oregon State, 3-0, while Indiana's lone setback was by Minnesota, 33-7.

SUGAR BOWL — LSU is counting heavily on quarterback Nelson Stokley, who set school records for total offense, passing yardage and pass completions. The Tigers, however, will be without Eddie Ray, top punter of the Southeastern Conference. He was given an academic disciplinary dismissal from the university earlier this month.

Wyoming now has a string of 14 consecutive victories, longest in the country. The Cowboys feature the passing of Paul Toscano, who ranked fifth in the nation with 134 completions in 241 attempts for 1,791 yards and 18 touchdowns. Kicking specialist Jerry Depoyster is another Wyoming star. His toe accounted for 66 points on field goals and extra points and produced a 41.7 punting average.

COTTON BOWL — A brilliant passing duel between Texas A&M's Edd Hargett and Alabama's Kenny Stabler is in prospect.

In regular season, Stabler completed 103 of 178 aerials for 1,214 yards and nine touchdowns. Hargett threw 208 and completed 99, including 14 TDs.

The Aggies, in winning their first Southwestern conference crown in 10 years, swept to six straight victories after dropping their first four games of the campaign. Alabama won its last five games.

ORANGE BOWL — Bob Warmack, a fine runner and passer, will be among Oklahoma's chief hopes of upsetting Tennessee. He completed 53 per cent of his aerials for 1,137 yards and seven touchdowns. His best receiver has been Eddie Hinton, a 197-pound wingback who runs the 100 in 9.7. Hinton has caught 28 passes for 427 yards.

Tennessee has used three men in the quarterback slot — Dewey Warren, Charley Fulton and Bubba Wyche. Warren is the No. 1 man with 78 completions in 132 attempts for a 59.1 percentage and 1,053 yards. Richmond Flowers, an Olympic hurdler, has been Warren's top target, catching 41 for 585 yards.

Reverse A Libel Judgment

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Washington State Supreme Court reversed 6-2 Saturday a $175,000 libel judgment granted former University of Washington basketball Coach John Grayson because of an article about him in the Saturday Evening Post.

The court ordered a new trial, saying that Grayson, although not a public official, was "a public figure in which the public has a justified and important interest."

The Curtis Publishing Co., publisher of the Post, contended that the U.S. Supreme Court decision prohibiting public officials from collecting damages for nonmalicious statements about their public conduct should apply to Grayson's suit.

The majority opinion, written by Judge Robert Hunter, agreed.

Judge Frank Hale, in a dissenting opinion in which Judge Hugh Rosellini joined, said the courts would "do great mischief to . . . the long-cherished common-law ambition that for every wrong, there is a remedy" if this doctrine was extended "to every libel case involving persons of prominence."

The suit was based on an article by Al Lightner of Salem, Ore., at the time a basketball referee, as told to a freelance writer, Al Stump. It appeared in the Jan. 5-12, 1963, edition of the Post.

Lightner criticized what he called "basketball's bullies, reckless coaches, rowdy players and riotous fans who disgrace our colleges." Grayson was named as an example of "explosive bench behavior."

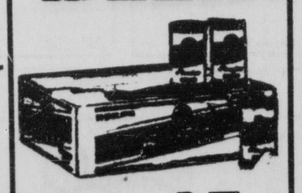

Four months after the article appeared, the university declined to renew Grayson's contract as head basketball coach. He failed to obtain employment for the 1963-64 season and sued Curtis for $300,000.

The judge in the King County (Seattle) Superior Court trial ruled out the "public official" defense, saying Grayson did not qualify under the U.S. Supreme Court ruling, which was in a case against the New York Times.

What Profit in Futilely Battling's Another's Will

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Our 21-year-old daughter is determined to soon marry a 37-year-old man, the divorced father of three young children. Though she has known him only since June, she refuses to wait any longer to marry him. When he visited us, we begged him to wait but it was like talking to a brick wall. I don't know whom to turn to, as I don't want her to do anything she'll regret. She is so young and attractive . . .

ANSWER: Dear fellow-parent, who among us is spared regret for some mistake we have made?

On the other hand, how can we know this marriage will be a mistake?

Second, let's suppose she DOES postpone this marriage and some unforeseen event ends her relationship to the man. How is she going to feel toward you, who so wants it ended? Grateful? Not on your life, friend. She'll begin to idealize it so that she may never be able to forgive you for wanting its destruction.

Now you and I are going to do some supposing together. First, let's suppose that this marriage turns out to be a fine one. Is there so much joy available to us humans that this young creature can afford to pass up a chance to experience it, lest the joy turn out to be misery? That's like standing forever on a sidewalk, lest a truck hit us if we cross the street. So, is this child to commit herself to movement and venture—or isn't she?

Now let's get down to the brass tack. You and this brick wall of a man who insists on marrying your child have more in common than you have with anyone except her father.

Both you and he are in total agreement on her beauty, her rarity and goodness.

It isn't everyone who is so quick to appreciate our child, you know. It's not going to be all men who regard your daughter as so precious that they want to cherish her for the rest of their lives. BUT THIS MAN DOES. And this extraordinary appreciation of her which you share with him can be the beginning of friendship between you if you will just let it be. For his love for her is also a form of love for you, who are her mother.

What I am talking about is what Albert Schweitzer called "acquiescence" in what is. I'm talking about it because you must stop banging your head against this wall of other people's determination.

Cepeda Is a Hero to Kids at P.S. 83, But...

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—At the end of last baseball season, signs popped up all over St. Louis reading, "Congratulations, El Birdos." The reference was to the Cardinals, World Series champions, and the corrupted Spanish honored Orlando Cepeda, the Puerto Rico-born first baseman who would soon be named the National League's Most Valuable Player.

Recently, another sign, this one in Public School 83 in Spanish Harlem, paid tribute to the Cardinal slugger. It was tacked on the stage of the auditorium: "Orlando Cepeda Day in El Barrio."

Cepeda had come at the request of MEND, Inc., a local antipoverty group. At 2 p.m., about 350 students, fourth through sixth graders, trooped in to see the baseball hero. About three-quarters of the students of the school are of Puerto Rican descent. Cepeda was born in Santurce, and is known as Peruchin, "Baby Bull." His father was known as Perucho, the Babe Ruth of Puerto Rican baseball.

Not everyone in the moppet audience had heard of the guest of honor, however.

"Who is this Orlando Cepeda?" asked one girl. Her friend replied, "A football player."

On stage, Cepeda, looking trim and strong in a natty gray suit, sat with the school's principal, the Bronx borough president, a "representative" from Mayor Lindsay's office and a few others.

The program began with the glee club singing two Latin American folk songs, including "El Coqui" (The Frog), and one non-Latin tune, "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocius." The soloist was Angel Valentine, a bespectacled tyke the size of Cepeda's bat.

Cepeda was introduced by another student. Harry Otivarez, head lowered, shyly said, "He is a great man from our same background. Now I will give my speech."

Cepeda rose to applause. He spoke first in Spanish. Then he reiterated in English. "My English is not too good-looking," he said, "but I'll try.

"We are all brothers. We come from a very small place. We should always try to put Puerto Rico very high.

"It is a place where the boxing champion Carlos Ortiz is from, and Junior Cordero, who broke race track records, and Roberto Clemente. Very much to be proud.

"And for me, I work very hard and challenge the world to make something of myself. I had two bad knee operations. Doctors told me I would never play baseball again. But I had not much education, so I told myself I had to play. I wanted to follow in my father's steps. With God's will and my will, I do them.

"But you need education. High school and college. With that, you can challenge the world, too."

As the students filed out, one boy was asked his reaction.

"Good, except for one thing," he said. "How come he didn't wear his uniform?"

Another was asked his favorite player.

"Mickey Mantle," he said.

National loyalty goes only so far.

Zahn Bow

By TOMMY THOMAS
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Wayne Zahn struck out more than anyone in the league last year but he wasn't placed on waivers. He didn't even take a pay cut. In fact, he earned a record $54,720.

That's because Zahn's league is the Professional Bowlers Association. Since April of 1966, Wayne has been the PBA's most consistent performer. About $100,000 worth of consistency.

A 26-year-old native of Milwaukee who now lives in Atlanta, Zahn was once an aspiring baseball pitcher who received offers from the Cardinals and Giants after he finished high school.

"They thought I had potential and wanted me to try out," he says, "but I didn't think I was good enough to go right to the majors and I sure didn't want to spend a lot of time bouncing around the minor leagues."

He chose, instead, to bounce around the PBA tour. The son of a bowling lanes manager, he had learned the sport as a youngster. In 1961, his second season on the circuit, he pocketed a meager $395. But in the ensuing four years he collected $40,000.

During this time, Wayne was sponsored, as are most of the pros. Last season he had a parting of the ways with his sponsor and decided to foot the bills himself. One week later, he won $25,000 in the Firestone Tournament of Champions.

Although he was the Sporting News' Bowler of the Year, a lot of sports fans are unaware who Wayne Zahn is.

"I'm not real satisfied with the press," (who is?) he says, "but I think it'll improve as the bowling tournaments start being held earlier in the day. I know there's a problem of deadlines and papers can't always print as much as they would if the matches were completed earlier."

WAYNE ZAHN
Newest Strikeout King

The thing that bugs Wayne is that most observers think all a guy has to do is aim for the pocket and hope all the pins fall.

"In golf, the spectator can see the hazards but in bowling they're unseen," he says. "The conditions change, as no two lanes in the country are alike. You have to compensate for changing speed and hand releases and learn three different shots from 10 different angles. It's a mathematical game."

Zahn knows his math. He estimates it takes about a 207 average to make money on the tour. He's averaging over 212 this season for 28 tournaments.

Ingemar Likes Counting His Money While Someone Else Gets Punched

By ROGER DOUGHTY
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The chick in the miniskirt, a well-upholstered Twiggy type, nearly fell off the bar stool as the big gun in the blue blazer nudged his way into the busy bistro.

"Look," she said, "it's David Janssen, only fatter."

A more-or-less typical experience in the life and times of Ingemar Johansson, former heavyweight champion who is now even heavier.

"Of course," notes Ingo, "some people recognize me right away, but quite often people stare at me as if they're trying to remember who I might be."

But shed no tears for Ingemar, easily the most popular Swedish export since the meatball. He's currently in boxing as a promoter in his native land while his fishing fleet, real estate enterprises and construction contracts drag in the real dough.

Ingemar Johansson

But once upon a time, in 1959, Ingo became a legend in his own time when he clubbed Floyd Patterson with a right (which he promptly tabbed The Hammer of Thor)—and won the heavyweight championship. Johansson held the title for a little less than a year, or, to be more precise, until the next time he fought. That, according to Ingo, was plenty long enough.

"It was nice while it lasted," he recalls, "but nobody holds the title forever."

Now that Ingo has nothing to do but count his millions, you might thing he'd miss his glory days a bit. You'd be wrong.

"I never liked to train," he says with a smile, "and nobody likes to get hit, so I'm much better off watching other people fight than fighting myself. Promoters don't get hit—usually."

The only thing Johansson will say about the current crop of heavyweights is that there are plenty of them.

"It's hard to say who will get the championship," Ingo observes, "but the division is very active now and that's always good. Clay, of course, was extremely good but some of the younger boxers coming up look very good, also. But who can say? One lucky punch and a man can win the championship."

The voice of experience has spoken.

At a recent heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden, Ingo took a bow before the main event and drew almost as much applause as Nino Benvenuti. He's at a loss to explain why, but he liked the feeling, anyway.

Johannson's latest visit was on boxing business with 240-pound Buster Mathis being the lure.

"I'm trying to sign Buster to fight in Sweden," Ingo said. "I don't care who he fights, as long as I get Mathis I'll be happy. Buster would be very big in Sweden."

Some joker, that Ingo.

"I saw it in the paper..."

...means she has faith in what she reads there. You've said it yourself many a time. You have confidence that it's true, if you read it in the paper. And that's a good place for an advertiser to be, surrounded by news and editorial features that people feel are authoritative. According to an actual survey, 8 out of 10 people felt that newspapers are "reliable" and "dependable;" more than 7 out of 10 felt them to be "believable." This receptive frame of mind extends to the advertising messages. In the same survey, newspaper advertising is rated high in positive, and low in negative feelings. So whatever you want to sell them, tell them about it in the newspaper.

Says Negro Riots Will Continue

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Riots by Negroes in Northern cities "will continue until the well of available cities runs dry," a psychologist declared today.

Explosive violence born of frustrations in Negro ghettos will go on, said Dr. T.M. Tomlinson, unless:

—Massive funds, at least $20 to $25 billion, ars made available to combat poverty and other intolerable living conditions. He said this "would not happen in an election year."

—White society demonstrates its "faith in the concept of Negro equality. Negroes have lost faith. They no longer believe that whites will allow them to take their place in this society regardless of what they might do by way of 'proving themselves."

—Negroes are given the chance to organize around economic and political projects that allow all Negroes "to pursue the constructive goals of political and economic power."

Dr. Tomlinson, now with the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, was teaching at the University of California at Los Angeles when the 1965 Los Angeles riot erupted, and was a coinvestigator soon afterward of its causes.

That study, plus some from other riot-torn cities, shows that many whites still entertain dangerous myths, he told the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The myths, he said, are that few Negroes take part in riots —that few sympathize with rioters—that most Negroes regard riots as haphazard and meaningless—that Negroes expect and are afraid of white retaliation and a worsening of interrace relationships.

The Los Angeles riot in Watts "had the purpose of letting the whites know 'how it is' for Negroes," Dr. Tomlinson said.

It "took the lid off by disinhibiting a riot response to the conditions of Negro life that had always existed," and riots now "have assumed the shape of a popular movement."

"There are no deterrents sufficient to expunge the outrage that gives birth to Negro violence, except their own fear, and that comes after the fact," Dr. Tomlinson said.

Riots have exploded where they weren't expected—as in Detroit with "relatively high Negro employment and wage rates"—indicating that "what is unacceptable about Negro life does not vary much from city to city, and the differences in Negro life from city to city are irrelevant. The unifying feature is the consensus that Negroes have been misued by whites."

See Conflict Of Interest By Prosecutor

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) — Charles Franklin says he won't accept the post of Audrain County prosecutor because there would be a conflict of interest.

Lonn Levvis plans to resign as prosecutor and city attorney for Mexico because of poor eyesight.

The Audrain County Bar Association could find no one in the county willing to replace Levvis, so an invitation was extended to Franklin, who lives in Columbia, and is an assistant prosecutor for Boone County.

Franklin asked the ethics committee of the Missouri Bar Association if he could legally accept the job.

The committee has advised him that there would be a conflict of interest, Franklin said.

The Audrain bar group plans another meeting in an effort to find another candidate whom Gov. Warren E. Hearnes might appoint as prosecutor.

Must Register, File Affidavits

Attorney General Norman H. Anderson ruled today that banks and trust companies must register and file antitrust affidavits with the Secretary of State pursuant to the provisions of Sections 351.120 and 351.135, VAMS. Anderson issued Opinion No. 162 in response to inquiry by Commissioner of Finance C. W. Culley.

Anderson said that a memorandum had been submitted for his consideration in which an argument was developed that Sections 351.120 and 351.135 do not apply to banks and trust companies.

William D. Leake has been appointed supervisor of the drilling and development section of Atlantic Richfield Company's Reservoir Engineering Group, North American Producing Division, in Dallas.

Leake was born in Ottawa, Kan., and attended public schools in Kansas City and Sedalia. A petroleum engineering graduate of the University of Kansas, he joined the Reservoir Engineering Group in Dallas shortly after the Atlantic Refining Company and Richfield Oil Corporation merged in 1966.

Prior to that he was in charge of experimental field operations for Richfield in the Athabasca Tar Sands. He joined Richfield Oil Corporation in 1955.

Mixture Of Feeling For Crowther

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bosley Crowther of the New York Times is quitting his chore of daily film reviewing this week, and his departure is greeted with both delight and regret in the power circles of Hollywood.

The delight is expressed by the film makers who bear many wounds from the uncompromising reviewer. The regret comes from the more thoughtful observers of the movie scene; they have praise for Crowther as Hollywood's conscience during his 27 years of penning film critiques for the Times.

There can be no doubt that a Crowther review could sting. Mention his name to many a producer or director and you can strike sparks. Actors seem to have a higher regard for Crowther; he seems to have been kinder to them.

No doubt Crowther enjoys his enemies. He has not succumbed to the trap that has destroyed many a critic: Becoming a personal friend of those he criticizes.

Crowther was especially adept at seeing through the pomposities and lack of substance of the Hollywood epics, and this is what made his name anathema with local powers. They claimed that he gave kinder treatment to foreign films.

But Crowther performed the valuable function of bringing attention to worthy movies from abroad that might otherwise have been lost amid the flood of commercial films.

He also took up other causes during his career, notably in his attacks on blacklists and film censorship. Even during his last months of reviewing he showed his capacity for stirring controversy. His attacks on the violence of such films as "Bonnie and Clyde" and "The Dirty Dozen" opened widespread discussion in the industry.

Crowther will continue to write movie pieces for the Times, concentrating on the broader aspects of entertainment. As a kind of valedictory, Putnam's has published a new book by Crowther which is a fine companion volume to his previous volumes, "The Lion's Share," a well-documented history of MGM, and "Hollywood Rajah," a scathing view of the life and times of Louis B. Mayer.

THE NEWS in Brief

BOSTON (AP) — Five years of testing all newborn babies in Massachusetts has turned up 45 who were spared mental retardation because phenylketonuria was detected early, the state Department of Public Health said Thursday.

Massachusetts was among the first of more than 30 states to require the test, made by examining a few drops of blood.

Commonly called PKU the inherited disorder inhibits the body's ability to change chemically certain amino acids. It can affect normal development of the brain unless the youngster is placed on a special diet.

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — Dirt is being poured into a huge oil reservoir in a last-ditch effort to put out a spectacular fire set by lightning nine days ago.

The residue of 29.4 million gallons of burned fuel oil still glowed over a wide area south of Los Angeles. A Standard Oil Co. spokesman said the reservoir would be filled in a week.

Attempts earlier to put out the fire with water and foam failed.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah State Board of Corrections Thursday authorized a program allowing selected minimum security inmates weekend furloughs for visits with relatives and friends.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana Radio reported Thursday that seven French nuclear physicists have arrived in Cuba for the Cultural Congress of Havana Jan. 4-11.

The Miami-monitored newscast said they were among a group of 70 scientists, writers, artists and intellectuals flying into Havana Wednesday night from several countries.

Some 500 leftist delegates are expected for the meeting.

The broadcast said delegations from North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam were enroute from Hanoi.

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Ronald S. Garcia, 18, wrote to the Denver Traffic Division, explaining he had some traffic tickets, but had moved to California.

The files turned up one ticket. Judge Gilbert Alexander set a $25 fine and Garcia was notified.

Then came another letter Wednesday, saying: "I think $25 is not enough for both tickets. So send me full price and I will remit same."

Another search turned up a second ticket for speeding. Judge Alexander levied a $20 fine on that one and sent Garcia bill for $45.

Degrees At Top, Bottom Taking Lead

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Graduate and junior college degrees are increasing faster than others in Missouri, a study of the State Commission on Higher Education shows.

The report, released Thursday, counted 20,882 degrees issued by Missouri colleges and universities in the 1966-67 school year, an increase of 5.3 per cent over the previous year.

But junior college degrees increased 20.4 per cent, doctorates 24 per cent, master's degrees 8.1 per cent and first level professional degrees 22.3 per cent.

The four-year public schools granted 10,380 degrees or 49.7 per cent of the total with the University of Missouri accounting for 5,734.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Ask Them Yourself

FOR STATE REP. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER IV

When did you first become interested in West Virginia politics? What prompted this interest? —Margaret M. Brooks, Squire, W. Va.

● I came to West Virginia in 1964 as a consultant to President Johnson's Commission on Juvenile Delinquency. I became interested in antipoverty work and joined the Action for Appalachian Youth Program as a field worker. I ran in the race for the state house of representatives on the Democratic ticket because I felt that political action is the most effective way to solve today's problems and that the great public decisions are made through politics.

FOR JACQUELINE SUSANN

Is it true that the prototypes for the three girls in your novel, "Valley of the Dolls" were Grace Kelly, Marilyn Monroe, and Judy Garland?—Ethel Hamilton, Atlantic City, N. J.

● No. The girls in the book were all composites. I have known many famous actresses in my years in the theater and on tv. Most writers draw certain characteristics from different people—assemble them, create their own being, their own looks, and out comes a character. That's how I came up with the characters Jennifer, Anne, and Neely. (They will be played by Sharon Tate, Barbara Parkins, and Patty Duke in the movie version.)

FOR CHET HUNTLEY

When you broadcast the Vietnam casualty report every Thursday, is the number of enemy dead estimated or confirmed? —Joseph Gyscek, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

● The Vietnam casualty figures we broadcast are the confirmed figures.

FOR PATTI PAGE

What did you give up to be a success? Was fame worth it?—T. X., Kankakee, Ill.

● Initially I gave up an art scholarship to a top college. Then when success really set in, I gave up my private life. I never had a moment for myself. I couldn't even find time to marry the man I loved. I changed everything the day I discovered the price of success was far too high to pay. I have since married and have limited myself to three months a year working on the road—never consecutively. Why? Because I have two children to raise, a husband to care for, and the ordinary chores that a big house requires.

FOR LORNE GREENE of "Bonanza"*

Do you have any sons, and, if so, what do they do?—Mrs. Richard Fagre, Provo, Utah

● I have one son, Charles, who is now traveling through Canada, gathering material for a book for tourists on inexpensive ways to visit that country.

FOR MAX COLWELL,

manager of the Tournament of Roses

What has been the biggest headache in your 45-year association with the Rose Bowl?—E. G., Stanford, Conn.

● In 1923 Navy was to play Washington, and Navy took 15,000 tickets. Then two Navy "gold braids" got into a feud, and one, an admiral, sailed his Pacific fleet out on "maneuvers" on Dec. 31. That left the other one holding 15,000 unsold tickets—and the Navy facing a financial fiasco. Luckily, the University of Washington was able to sell the tickets at the last minute—and tie the game, 14-14.

FOR CAROLYN JONES

Do you ever get nervous when you are about to perform? If so, what do you do about it?—D. B., Waco, Texas

● Many years ago I discovered that yoga exercises were valuable in helping me to relax. The breathing exercises are especially good for relaxation.

FOR JIM TAYLOR,

New Orleans Saints

● Definitely. A controlled weight-lifting program not only builds up strength but also is instrumental in developing stamina. Some of the greatest strides in sports today can be attributed to advancements in weight-lifting. I know that much of my success is due to such a program.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Men's Fashion Note Last year if anyone turned up at your New Year's formal without a black tie, you'd have called him a slob. This year you may have to let him in. Turtlenecks worn with dinner jackets are the latest thing in men's formal wear. Robert Kennedy, Johnny Carson, Lord Snowden, Noel Harrison, and Charles Robb are some turtleneck converts—and even Amy Vanderbilt has given the fad her etiquette okay.

Noel Harrison in formal

Escort Service Women who hate driving alone at night can now buy an escort for about five dollars. He's an inflatable manlike figure designed to discourage stick-ups and pick-ups.

Sweet News Scare rumors have been flying that artificial sweeteners are a health hazard. The Food and Drug Administration now reports, "No such evidence." So back on your diets, everyone!

Curtain Time The Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn., the "Palace" of country music, is getting a new stage curtain, which means that Opry lovers will have a chance for the memento of a lifetime. A three-inch snip of the old curtain will be included in a limited-edition record album, "Stars of the Grand Ole Opry." Last year they did the same thing with bits of the curtain from that other opera, the old Metropolitan in New York.

Virtue Rewarded The cost of charity may be less than you think. According to tax tables, if you're the head of the household and have a taxable income of $12,000, then a $100 donation costs you only $73. The Government pays the rest by reducing the amount of your income tax.

Power of a Lie A group of researchers strode into the Oak School in South San Francisco, Calif., brief cases bulging with "phony" intelligence tests. They gave the tests, then picked 20 percent of the pupils at random and lied about them, telling their teachers that these students could be expected to spurt ahead. In one first-grade class, the children who had been lied about gained 24.8 IQ points more than their classmates. The teacher hadn't spent extra time with these children, but her attitude had shown them that she thought highly of them. Her expectations were based on a lie—but the lie worked!

Glamour Girl Some of today's big stars wander around in blue jeans but not Sandra Dee. She drives about in a Rolls-Royce, and the last time she counted, she had 14 fur coats. (She doesn't count stoles and such.) Still, she's practical about her luxuries. "On the full-length coats," she explains, "the bottoms zip off to change from evening length to mini."

What the Seers Predict for 1968

By BRAD STEIGER Author of "Strange Powers of Prophecy," "We Have Lived Before," and "ESP—Your Sixth Sense"

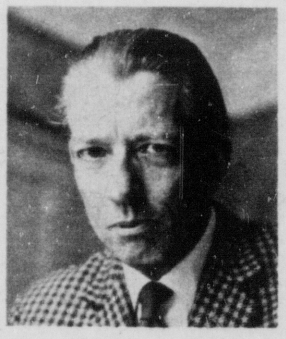

NEW YEAR'S Eve. The time when we look wistfully backward—and anxiously forward. What will happen to us in 1968?

Of course, nobody can be sure, but parapsychologists do believe that some persons indeed have the unique ability to predict the future.

The experts, of course, give no credence to phony fortunetellers, palm readers, stargazers, and spiritualists. But in the case of select "seers," the evidence is overwhelming: they have been uncannily accurate in their forecasts.

FAMILY WEEKLY asked a number of world-famous seers to predict what 1968 has to offer, and they have come up with some startling pronouncements. Right or wrong, only time will tell —but here's what they say we can expect:

JOHN PENDRAGON

John Pendragon, England's remarkable seer, is regarded by many to be the most gifted prophet and clairvoyant of our time. His forecasts consistently have proved to be 85-to-90 percent accurate.

In print and as much as one year in advance of the actual occurrence, Pendragon predicted Pres. John F. Kennedy's assassination, the retirement of Nikita Khrushchev, the detonation of Red China's atomic bomb, Lyndon B. Johnson's election and his operation, the New Orleans investigation of the "plot" to kill Kennedy, the Middle-East crisis, Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin's visit to the U.N., and the recent illness of Pope Paul.

Among the events which Pendragon forecasts for the coming year are:

- The sudden death of a duke, which will require a postmortem and an inquest.
- Two princes will have trouble with their health, one so seriously that his condition will make headlines.
- The beginning of a coalition government in Great Britain which will be, in effect, a dictatorship by 1975, whether the Royalty remains there or not.
- A French doctor or scientist will make a remarkable discovery which will lead to a greater understanding of the cause and cure of certain malignant conditions of the body. He will be rejected by Britain, but America will accept and extend his theories.
- Russian Premier Kosygin will withdraw from office owing to pressures within the Kremlin. It will be announced that he is retiring for reasons of health.
- The war in Vietnam will continue with unabated fury for many more months.
- Japan will become a great thorn in the side of China and of communism in general. Closer links will be established among Japan, the U.S., and Great Britain.
- There are great pressures building up within President Johnson which will undermine his health, perhaps rather suddenly. There will be an increasing opposition from his detractors, both with regard to Vietnam policy and home affairs. The death of a close personal associate also will affect him in his private life.
- There will be an archaeological discovery of some importance in northern Texas, probably on the border of New Mexico, in the vicinity of the panhandle city of Amarillo.
- Severe earth tremors and floods may cause a number of casualties in San Francisco.

R. C. "DOC" ANDERSON

R. C. "Doc" Anderson of Rossville, Ga., gained fame as a prophet by predicting Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt's death, the detonation of the first atomic bomb, the election of President Eisenhower, and the dates for the end of fighting in both theaters of World War II.

For 1968, "Doc" Anderson offers these interesting predictions:

- George Wallace will be elected the next President of the United States, and his victory will be a greater upset than that of Harry Truman's in 1948.
- Within two years the U.S. and Russia will be allied in a war against Red China.
- There will be more riots in our cities, but a law will be passed to stop such violent outbreaks of lawlessness.
- Israel will prevail, although there will be continued trouble in the Middle East.
- A cure for cancer will be announced soon.

MALVA DEE

"The amazing Canadian psychic" is the name earned by Malva Dee, the seeress of "Enchanted Acres" in the Haliburton Highlands of West Guilford, Ontario. She predicted in print the death of Sir Winston Churchill, the Watts riots in Los Angeles, and the Munsinger affair which scandalized Canadian government circles.

She agrees with John Pendragon that there are ". . . pressures around President Johnson which will take him from the public eye."

Among her other glimpses of 1968, she sees:

- There will be no major outbreak in the Cold War which will trigger a nuclear war. There will be the usual rumors flying back and forth, however, and some minor incidents will occur. But due to the coming U.S. election, there will be a "hands off" policy enforced by the Russians.
- India will face a time of peril, as fire will ravage a large city. Other nations will lend a helping hand.
- New Orleans, Cleveland, Houston, Memphis, and Los Angeles will be in the headlines as racial trouble spots.
- Dissension may be felt between Canada and the United States over water rights. A plan will be drawn up and will be rejected by Canada as being totally unsuitable. An alternate agreement will be reached.
- A noted member of the British Royal family will die.

U.S.-Russia at war with Red China! A cure for cancer! Peace gestures from Hanoi! These are some startling New Year's forecasts from world-renowned predictors

• A new approach to skin-grafting will be developed. Medical research will also release a drug which will have a freezing action on diseased portions of a person's body.

• A new food from the sea will be produced in a very palatable form and will be widely accepted by consumers.

• Women's skirts will become longer; square-toed shoes will remain popular.

• The Mississippi Valley will be deluged by a great flood this spring.

• There will be many reported sightings of UFOs, and a flying saucer will crash-land in an unpopulated area.

PAUL TWITCHELL

Paul Twitchell is the world's leading authority on eckankar, the ancient science of soul travel. As a young man, Twitchell journeyed to Tibet in the company of his stepsister to seek out the masters who use soul travel to heal and to predict the future. He has set up spiritual centers for eckankar across the nation.

Twitchell foresees:

• A serious schism in the Catholic Church will develop during the fall and winter months. The fight between Church liberals and conservatives will grow into a battle of such proportions that the Vatican will try to close the gap by placing restrictions on both sides.

• Chiang Kai-shek will be in the news again with an attempted invasion of the Red Chinese mainland.

• Earthquakes will rock Alaska during the early summer. Quakes will also be felt on the West Coast of the U.S., but the damage will be relatively minor.

• One of the leading soft-drink firms will make an announcement that it has perfected a nicotine-free cigarette.

• A split in the ruling group in Hanoi will bring about an objective peace gesture during the middle of the year. The peace overture will be brought about because of the waning interest of Russia in supporting the North Vietnamese with military goods.

• A new type missile will be announced by the Defense Department early in the year. It will be an answer to Soviet Russia's new program for a similar weapon.

• Former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama will make a strong race for the Presidency on an independent ticket. The only thing that will defeat him will be a lack of strength among the business people who will be afraid to change the political scene.

• Premier Kosygin will be out of office by the end of '68.

• Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India will hand in her resignation by the end of the year. Trouble will mount so fast and so heavily that the country will turn against her. There will be confrontations with the Chinese.

JAMES CAMERON

James Cameron of Scotland is a famed reader of tarot cards (playing cards with checkered backs, used for fortunetelling). He foresees some friendly relations coming with Russia. "Some pleasant things will be said about the U.S. in Moscow, and a high-ranking Russian official will visit America in late summer," he says.

Among his other forecasts, Cameron predicts:

• An international incident will be caused by the attack on an American vessel by the Red Chinese.

• America and Russia will have a common disagreement with Red China.

• Castro will be suspected of having a hand in a governmental change in a small South American republic that will establish an apparently Communist regime.

• There will be legislation in the U.S. to ban the supply of certain drugs. But, regrettably, a hitherto unknown plant will yield what at first will seem to be a mild narcotic. It will turn out to be an insidious new source of drug addiction.

• There will be a large number of well-authenticated sightings of UFOs, but governments will continue to be reluctant to authenticate these reports.

• In late summer, an important scientific discovery will be announced when a distinguished professor will describe his latest findings in the field of solar research.

DOROTHY SPENCE LAUER

A resident of Glendora, Calif., Mrs. Lauer has possessed a high degree of ESP since her youth. "My mother gave me some very sound advice." She said: "Live normally, and don't let this gift rule you—you rule it!"

Mrs. Lauer agrees with the other seers in predicting that the Vietnam war will be a "long, hard pull." She also foresees:

• A new drug for cancer which will be slow-working, but will point the way to a cure.

• New and better birth control.

• A startling announcement from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

• A major change in the Roman Catholic church that will rock the nation when it is made public. The Pope will be hailed as having made a correct decision.

• The remarkable show of the Russians at the Olympics. Sweden and Canada also will be strong. The U.S. will win an outstanding victory if a certain young man tries his best.

Remove cinnamon just before ready to serve. Using one or more drops green food coloring, tint to desired color. When ready to serve, transfer oranges and lemons to a heat-resistant punch bowl; prick peel thoroughly with a fork. Pour hot cider over fruit. Ladle into punch cups. About 4 qts. punch

Where Is Pop Music Headed in 1968?

A music expert looks ahead to the new sounds that will rock the record world

By BOB CREWE

EDITORS' NOTE: Bob Crewe knows what's happening in music because, as one of the nation's leading record producers, it's his job to make it happen. As writer, arranger, and producer for top recording stars, he captures the beat of the times so successfully that in the past 10 years he has sold some 100 million records. Occasionally he emerges from behind the scenes to record such hits as "Music to Watch Girls By" with his own group, the Bob Crewe Generation.

ROCK 'n' roll is dead. Finished. More and more, it becomes blasphemy to call the new sounds—the sounds of 1968—by that worn-out name.

Rock 'n' roll began as a boom-boom-boom, a primitive beat set to simple lyrics. "Pimple music," they called it then. It's grown up now.

The beat has become clarified, the lyrics are evolving into poetry. Encrusted with ideas and inventions, pop music is now borrowing musical influences from other times and countries.

Beatle George Harrison grabs a sitar, and raga-rock is born. If you listen closely to a Supremes record, you'll hear classical Tchaikovsky changes. Tune in to the acid-rock of Moby Grape or Jefferson Airplane and you're caught up in free-wheeling sounds. Pop music has turned into a selective, electronic form where anything goes, where everything that has ever happened in music is bubbling into a new sound, an art form.

All of this has happened at amazing speed. Remember, it was only 1963 when the Beatles hit our shores with a simple, basic yah-yah-yah beat. The amplified guitar and superloud drumbeat buried the lyrics, often on purpose. The idea was to wrap yourself up in the sound and go dancing.

Today, though, the lyrics come up strong, and people are listening. Adults who shuddered at "I wanna hold your hand," applaud the poignant words of the Beatles' "Eleanor Rigby."

It's still the teenybopper who makes a pop star, who dares to buy a new record because she likes it, not because someone has told her it's "in." But today she's a scout for her big sisters. She bounces off the new sound waves, and the older people pick up on them. "I can't stand rock 'n' roll," the older generation still says, "but I love that 'Sgt. Pepper' album, or 'Aretha Franklin,' or 'The Mamas and the Papas.' "

In 1967 they heard pop music splinter into many different sounds. There was the folk-rock of Simon and Garfunkel, Bob Dylan, and Donovan, the raga-rock started by the Beatles and quickly picked up by the Byrds and the Yardbirds. There was the soul music of James Brown and Mitch Ryder, the good-time sounds of the Mamas and the Papas and the Lovin' Spoonful. From San Francisco come psychedelic or acid-rock by groups like the Grateful Dead.

All of this should come together in one supersound in 1968. Folk, rhythm and blues, soul, all of these influences will remain strong. You'll still catch the sitar in the background, used as the Beatles do, for sound effect. But the one-chord Indian music, the monotony of the oriental drum, will wear itself out. The music reflects the way the Orientals think, in one straight, continuous line, but the Western ear demands more diversity.

Coming through strongest in this intricate new tapestry of sounds will be the direct influence of church music. It is no longer the wailing, stomping, blues sound of Negro gospel. Now we are hearing the influences of medieval and classical church music, the purity of line of an "Ave Maria," the intricacy of Beethoven and Brahms.

What has happened is that a generation rebelled against the music of its parents. But a generation rebels in the same crablike motion as an individual. With one outward movement, you push away the old standard values.

Yet another movement impels you toward them, if only to investigate, disprove, and then reject. The danger is that the rebellion will backfire and the old values will ring true, after all.

Today the young people wind flowers in their hair and bells around their necks; they dress up in bizarre costumes that proclaim their rebellion against the older generation and the traditional beliefs. But listen closely. You can almost hear them singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers"—with a rock beat. It's their own version, of course, but try fitting the old words of a hymn to today's music. You'll see it works. Try listening to the words. They're about love, about honesty. They wail in the dark for people of the world to care, please care, about each other.

The new sound in 1968 will be a combination of soul-searching lyrics and complex, chromatic harmonies. With no disrespect intended, it could be called "Vatican Rock."

It will be played by performers who will be more polished and professional than we have seen in pop music for some time. The audience today is a demanding one, and the most fickle we have ever known. They don't amble into a record shop and, as their parents did, casually ask for so-and-so's new record. Today heroes come and go; a performer is only as good as his last hit record.

The audience will make an overnight sensation of a Bobbie Gentry, then topple her into obscurity if her second record isn't as good as "Ode to Billie Jo." Only a group with the inventive genius of the Beatles can stay on top for long.

They'll still be up there in 1968. So will the Doors, Beach Boys, Four Seasons, and Supremes. This will be Mitch Ryder's year to come into his own. It will be a crucial year for the Rolling Stones, a testing year for Janis Ian, who has shown flashes of brilliance. And it will be a memorable year for an unknown group who will come out of the blue with the right sound at the right time.

Today's audience will not buy anyone who tries to rhyme moon with June; they're looking for someone who will tell it like it is. The right sound for 1968 will be the sound of honesty. ◆

DAVID HEMMINGS:

Can Marriage Humble This Egotist?

I FIRST MET David Hemmings in Ankara, Turkey, during location shooting for his latest film, United Artists' "The Charge of the Light Brigade." I wanted to find out how his overnight success (as the photographer in "Blow-Up") had affected this reportedly brash, conceited young man.

"Success hasn't changed me in the least," he said off-handedly. "I was a precocious child, and I'm still self-centered and egotistical. People don't change; they become more of whatever they were to start with. The only difference is that I'm less hypocritical about my conceit than others."

Hemmings readily admits that he has a double standard of behavior. At work he is on time, dependable, and easygoing. In his private life, he is the direct opposite—he can't even keep an appointment when he's the host.

He recalled a birthday party he threw in Hollywood for Vanessa Redgrave, his costar in "Blow-Up," "Camelot," and "The Charge of the Light Brigade." At the appointed time, 40 guests turned up only to find that their host had left for London a few hours before.

"Vanessa understood, but some of the guests were pretty sore," he explains. "I didn't want to hurt anyone's feelings. I'm absent-minded."

Apparently someone has learned to take him as he is—23-year-old actress Gayle Hunnicutt of Fort Worth, Texas. Gayle met Hemmings at a Thanksgiving party in Peter Lawford's beach house.

"I was just getting out of the pool, and he was coming toward me," Gayle says. "I was simply fascinated by his face."

David married her a short time ago in Italy and is determined to "make sure it'll last this time." His first marriage to actress Jennis Lewis ended in divorce early in 1966.

"Gayle is good for me," he explains. "I've never been able to make friends easily because I've always thought the only way to live is to live selfishly. Gayle has changed that some. I get along with people better now."

Hemmings credits his brashness and conceit to his entrance into show business as a nine-year-old singer. He toured Europe with a British opera company for five years, but this career came to an end when his voice broke. "At that age I hadn't developed tolerance," he says.

After his stint with the opera company, David returned to school in England but soon found that he couldn't take the discipline and decided to leave. His parents objected, so he left home, too. He then enrolled at the Epsom School of Art, where he nurtured his natural talent for painting.

Hemmings also has a much different attitude toward the press than most actors. When Gayle returned to Turkey after six weeks in Hollywood, for example, David's first move was not to make a date with her—instead, he saw a reporter who had flown in from London. "When the public reads your name 10 times, they're likely to remember you," he states.

Next to acting, David is most involved in painting. In fact, the paintings he did while at Epsom Art School gave him security until he got his break in films. "Doesn't matter, though," he says. "Money means nothing to me. I had too much when I was little. I get about $250,000 for this film, but it'll probably all be gone before I leave Turkey."

David tried to analyze why he is such a spendthrift. "It's part of my guilt complex, based on my conscious lack of responsibility toward my parents. They were never in favor of my career and never understood me.

"I feel guilty about not having made more of an effort myself," he adds. "In a way, I never really grew up. Having been thrust into an adult world as a child, I could never do without adulation. I always looked at myself too much; I was too set in my ways and became quite inflexible. I have to be the center of attention. But I hope to change for Gayle's sake."

True, David Hemmings has a tremendous streak of selfishness, but marriage might well topple his towering egotism. —Peer J. Oppenheimer

Custom fit for any dress you make guaranteed on this precision adjusting form—or no cost!

Aristocrat of Dress Forms

A professional precision adjustment form (DuPont Neoprene) gives body material great flexing and holding power.

- "dial" your measurements into size computer—clip lock—form becomes YOU.
- Adjusts to regular, half sizes . . . many variations 8 to 20 (also model 20 to 50).
- Each shoulder raises, lowers. Each bust expands, contracts, raises, lowers.
- Waist narrows, widens, shortens, lengthens. Hips widen, narrow, raise, lower.
- Entire form gains, reduces with you—adjusts to other family members.
- Strong steel stand—and form—take apart easily—stow away in drawer.

This form guarantees a custom-fit expensive look to each dress you alter or make—or no cost. Yet it saves you money so fast it often pays for itself the first or second time used.

This custom fit form saves hours adjusting patterns and fitting cloths—up to 50% of sewing time. It saves struggling, twisting, turning—trying to get the right fit. It saves ripping out seams for a simple alteration, or just because your skirt didn't hang properly the first time.

THE SECRET OF CUSTOM FIT

Would you like every dress you alter or make praised for its custom-fit expensive look? . . . While you smile—inside—at the money and time you've saved—at the end of embarrassment of poor fit "home-made" clothes—or the success of your first dress making attempt.

The secret is custom adjusting of standard patterns to your differences (there's only one you). When you pin the pattern to an exact duplicate of you, this adjusting is simple and easy.

And this custom-fit life-size dress form becomes —exactly YOU—with YOUR waist—YOUR shoulders—YOUR neck—YOUR bust line—YOUR hips.

This is because in each body area an ingenious size computer "dials" your measurements. A Tab (like a tape measure) slides through a slot under the area answer window. When your measurements appear in each window, just clip lock in position. Automatically the DUPONT NEOPRENE processed body material has already adjusted—in each body area—to become YOU! Custom adjusting of patterns to you has become as easy as before it was difficult.

A LIFE-SAVER FOR BEGINNERS

Because the hardest part of home sewing is making adjustments—exactly what ADJUST-O-MATIC makes so simple.

With it beginners easily make hems—adjust hemlines—make alterations so perfectly, store-bought clothes fit like made-to-order. You save the $3 to $5 paid before to fix a shoulder line—shorten a hem —take in a waist line. You're more satisfied with the way your clothes fit.

Fitting in this form is so easy you quickly form old dresses into new. Too tight or too loose—too large or too small dresses fit again. You easily alter, redesign, remodel your own dresses, coats, skirts, blouses. You begin to make your own simple dresses then more complicated ones. Later, you even design your own styles, and all on this form.

DOES MORE THAN ANY OTHER FORM

This master pattern-maker's form has every possible professional dressmaker trick and short cut built right into it.

It's unlike any other form. To adjust there's no maze of wire and bolts to struggle with. Simply slide, adjust and clip lock. It's pinnable—throughout. No gaps down front or side or around neck give difficulty.

The light steel stand is so adjustable, raises or lowers precisely to any point 4′ 2″ to 5′ 6″ (add length of your head from neck up to measurements of any form). It's handsome, rubber-tipped, gives steady support. It assembles, takes apart easily.

Luigi Cella's lifetime—as master pattern maker for VOGUE—McCALL's and others—is built into this form.
All his life—Luigi has designed dress forms—some of the world's most expensive—to give custom fit to the very rich.
But Luigi built this custom fit dress form for you—to adjust more precisely than any other—do many dressmaker tricks others can't—yet cost a fraction of what others do.

Work with this form anywhere. Lap, table, chair. Want to work on shoulders—back—underarm seam —front—waist—hips? Presto! One hand lifts form off stand. Without ever getting up from your chair you can take ADJUST-O-MATIC apart and work in sections.

Every adjustment—each contour line—the height range—the angle of the darts—posture angle of the form—all have been checked and rechecked by fashion fit leaders, home dress-making authorities and fashion editors.

AMAZING NO RISK OFFER

Instead of bulky, heavy cast-iron framing and body, ADJUST-O-MATIC uses DUPONT NEOPRENE processed body material. Shipped direct to you disassembled it costs a fraction of ordinary forms. There are several parts to each section—only 15 in all. To assemble, adjust or take apart each step is simple and fun with clear can't-go-wrong directions.

When you try it for 30 days without obligation you'll realize why it's so amazing. Full refund if not delighted.

All ADJUST-O-MATIC costs is $5.49 yet it has many features dress forms costing six times more do not have. Try at our risk. Reserve yours today.

Test Your Sense of Humor

By JOHN E. GIBSON

EVERYBODY likes to laugh and be amused, but they vary tremendously in their capacity to appreciate humor. Some go through life finding very little that strikes them as laughable; others have the ability to find the lighter side of almost anything.

Scientists have found that your sense of humor reveals a great deal about your character, personality, and general outlook on life. To find out some interesting things about your personality, simply compare your sense of humor with these significant findings.

■ It is true that intelligence and a well-developed sense of humor go hand in hand?

Yes. Studies at Purdue University and Vassar College have shown conclusively that a keen appreciation of wit and humor indicates a correspondingly keen intelligence. Evidence indicated that those less well-endowed intellectually generally find the fewest things they consider amusing.

■ Can you tell a man's personality type by the brand of humor he prefers?

Yes. Studies at University College in London show that introverts prefer jokes of the more subtle, sophisticated variety, jokes that are artfully and ingeniously contrived. On the other hand, extroverts prefer jokes that are simple and uninvolved and show a fondness for off-color humor.

A man's body type also is directly related to the type of humor he prefers. Short, heavy-set people enjoy simple, uncomplicated humor; tall, lanky individuals like subleties, puns, and delayed-action humor; the athletic type prefers direct humor without shading.

■ Is it true that persons with a good sense of humor are the hardest to deceive?

Yes. The better developed a man's sense of humor is, the harder it is to trick him by bluff, cunning, flattery, or subterfuge. This has been demonstrated at Purdue University, where students who made the highest scores on sense-of-humor tests also scored highest on tests designed to evaluate astuteness and level-headedness.

■ If a person fails to get the point of a simple, easy-to-understand joke, does that indicate he lacks a sense of humor?

Not necessarily. Humor-reaction experiments at Yale University show that failure to understand a joke may be the result of a person attempting to protect himself from the anxiety the joke arouses. In cases of this kind it was found that there is really a hidden wish not to understand the humor.

A good sense of humor requires the ability to regard things in their proper perspective, and less well-adjusted individuals tend to be lacking in this department. Their inclination to take themselves too seriously extends not only to humor but to other things as well.

■ Does a well-developed sense of humor tend to complement a well-balanced personality?

Yes. Research at Yale University shows that the better adjusted a person is, the more readily he responds to the humor in jokes, cartoons, and everyday situations. Maladjusted persons tended to miss the point of jokes and to regard humor with either apprehension or indifference.

■ Is it true that people who have a keen sense of humor tend to have the most sympathetic insight into the character of others?

Yes. Studies at Michigan State University show that those who are the quickest to perceive humor have the ability to sense the underlying motivations of others and share their point of view.

■ Is a sense of humor actually an important factor where physical health and well-being of persons are concerned?

Yes. Findings at Michigan State University and elsewhere show that a sense of humor provides a safety valve for releasing health-sapping tensions. Looking at the lighter side of things is an invaluable aid to health, happiness, and a long life. ◈

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY---For a real convenience sew a pocket on the INSIDE of your shower curtain. This will hold the soap always handy.---MRS. G. D.

DEAR POLLY—At our house someone always seems to be drinking something in the living room. Every coaster we have ever had dripped and left marks on the furniture so now we use pretty pot holders (loops or crocheted). They absorb a lot more moisture and are easy to wash. —MARILYN

DEAR POLLY---I have one high, wood paneled wall which needs dusting. I bought a child's size dust mop and dusting it is now a breeze since I have the right length handle to go over the entire wall. I spray some polish on the mop before using.---MRS. G. Z.

DEAR POLLY—I have found a way that saves me from having to wash my oily hair so often. I wrap a piece of gauze around the brush and brush thoroughly to remove a lot of dirt and oil from my hair.—D. C.

DEAR POLLY---An instant candle can be made for an emergency by dipping the cotton covered end of one of baby's cotton tipped sticks into a jar of petroleum jelly, then remove and light that end.---MRS. S. N.

DEAR POLLY—When one of a pair of boudoir lamp shades becomes too worn looking do not discard it. Use it as a decorative flower pot or vase. Turn upside down, bend flat the wire that holds the bulb, cut a piece of foam rubber to fit in the bottom, place this on top of the bent flat wire and you are then ready to insert your artificial flower arrangement. —ANNA

DEAR POLLY---My husband gets both the washcloth and sink dirty when he cleans up after work. I sprinkle a good cleaner in the sink and use the dirty washcloth to clean it out when he finishes. They both get clean at the same time and then the washcloth is put with the regular wash.---MRS. M. P.

DEAR POLLY—A yardstick can be very helpful when hanging curtains. After they are up, stand on the floor and with the yardstick arrange the gathers just where you want them. This saves climbing up and down a ladder and also does a better job. I used to put off dusting the furniture as long as I could. Now I have discovered that if I do it while I am waiting for something to cook, I do a better job and do not notice I am doing it.—HILDA
